Jack Dillon effectively settled the old question of superiority with Gus Christie at Milwaukee, Wis., by administering a decisive beating, and almost a knockout.

Six persons were injured, one of them fatally, when a bowlder half as big as a box car rolled on the tracks of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy railroad near Genoa, Wis., wrecking Chicago-bound passenger train No. 58. Engineer James M. Pratt of La Crosse was so seriously injured that he died.

Edward P. Grosvener declared to judges of the U. S. district court at St. Paul, Minn., that unless the "harvester trust" is disintegrated two families within a few years will own a monopoly of every implement made in this country for the American farmer. Cyrus McCormick and James Deering of Chicago were named.

Candidates in Indianapolis, Ind., charged that the police were not trying to give the traction company protection. Sheriff Porteous was accused of playing politics in seeking to make deputy sheriffs for strike service, thus keeping them out of activities at the polls. R. L. Todd, president of the street car company; J. J. Mahoney, superintendent, and Superintendent of Police Hyland were attacked by a crowd of strikers and their friends, but were not seriously injured.

The budget committee of the board of estimate announced that it had drawn up a budget calling for only $12,905,551 for New York city's household expenses next year. Although this is an increase of $284,110 over the budget for 1913 it shows the smallest increase of any budget for many years.

It is practically a foregone conclusion that the collection of an estimated $100,000,000 November interest payments due in New York will be complicated by a solution of the riddle. Whatever the outcome, it is predicted that many suits will be instituted against the government to test the law. Some of the leading insurance companies, led by the New York Life, have questioned that feature of the law which imposes a tax on corporate holders of state or municipal bonds, which they hold large amounts, while exempting the individual.

The chief source of trouble is that portion of the law which provides for the collection "at the source" of the tax on income derived from interest on bonds, mortgages and certain other obligations. Banks and corporations are required to withhold this tax in making payments of interest due to holders of securities.

The ruling in question has given rise to no end of confusion. In cases in which bonds are not registered the names of their owners often are not known to the banks or fiscal agents to whom coupons are presented for payment. The identity of the owners must be established to determine whether the tax is to be deducted.

CHAOS OVER NEW TAX

INCOME TAX CONFUSES WALL ST. BANKERS AND LAWYERS.

Admit Their Ignorance—Find Chief Difficulty Is in Clause Providing for Collection "at the Source."

New York, Nov. 2.—That part of New York which is referred to vaguely by Wall street was in a state of confusion Friday. For once in its career Wall street did not know which way to turn. The new income tax law became effective that day and some of the highest-priced lawyers, bankers and corporation officials in the world confessed that they were completely at sea as to its meaning.

It is practically a foregone conclusion that the collection of an estimated $100,000,000 November interest payments due in New York will be complicated by a solution of the riddle. Gray Tells House Plan to Give Miss Jessie Wilson a Wedding Present Is "In Bad Taste."

Washington, Nov. 2.—Representative Gray of Indiana created a commotion on Thursday by denouncing his colleagues in that body for presenting $5 a piece to a fund, the purpose of which is to purchase a wedding present for Miss Jessie Wilson. Gray declared members were getting "too familiar" with the president's family, and suggested that money be turned over to charity.

"I think this movement is in bad taste," declared an indignant member of the house, "and an unwarranted assumption by members of this house," said Gray. "I do not think we should tender a trinket to the president's family. We are strangers to her, and it is bad form for us to intrude."

POLITICS IN STRIKE

EDITOR CHARGES SHERIFF WANT. ED BUSINESS MEN AS DEPUTIES TO AID PARTY.

HEADS OF COMPANY STONED

President Todd, J. J. Mahoney and Police Chief Hyland Stoned by a Mob in Indianapolis—Mounted Officers Rescue Men.

Indianapolis, Nov. 5.—Numerous riots, partisan politics and a suit for forfeiture of franchise entered into the street car strike situation Monday. In the riots Thomas Carlson, a chauffeur, was shot and perhaps fatally wounded while watching strike sympathizers attack the Louisiana car barns where strike-breakers were housed.

Candidates charged that the police were not trying to give the traction company protection. Sheriff Porteous was accused of playing politics in seeking to make deputy sheriffs for strike service, thus keeping them out of activities at the polls.

The day closed without any effort being made to provide street car service.

The suit for annulment and forfeiture of the traction company's franchise and the appointment of a receiver was filed in the circuit court by Albert C. Pearson, a lawyer, acting as a taxpayer. It alleged that the company, through its failure to operate the cars for the last three days, violated its franchise contract with the city. The summons in the suit was made returnable November 13.

Robert I. Todd, president of the traction company; John J. Mahoney, superintendent, and Martin Hyland, superintendent of police, were bruised and forced to run for the terminal station while mounted police forced back the crowds. Both Todd and Mahoney were attacked again while passing the stationhouse building.

The mounted police rushed to the stationhouse lawn and made it possible for Todd and Mahoney to reach their offices.

Charges of politics entered after Sheriff Porteous had issued summonses for 200 business and professional men for the purpose of making them deputies. Not more than 10 of the men answered the summonses. After the sheriff had explained his purpose Leo E. Fisher, editor of the Marion County Mail and former president of the Indiana Republican Editorial association, charged him with using the summonses to keep active Republicans from working at the polls in the election. He asserted that of the 200 summonses not more than ten were of the sheriff's political complexion, Democrats.

"I do not think you were sincere in calling us here," said Mr. Fisher, addressing the sheriff. "This is simply a political movement. You have gone through the list of political workers and selected the men simply for the purpose of crippling your political opponents election day."

ICEBERG CRASH TOLD

STEAMER WHICH STRUCK MOUNTAIN OF ICE REACHES ST. JOHN'S A WRECK.

FIGHT TO KEEP WATER OUT

Crew Struggles at the Pumps to Hold Back Flood After Collision in the Strait—Worst Wreck That Ever Reached Harbor.

St. John's, N. F., Nov. 6.—The freighter Manchester, Commerce of the Purcell line dragged her way into the harbor here on Tuesday, her bow a mass of crumpled wreckage and her pumps working hard to defeat the flood of water which poured in through the shattered hull.

The steamer, which carries no wireless apparatus, crashed head on into a giant iceberg at two o'clock Sunday morning while about 100 miles east of Belle Isle.

The night was very dark and the berg loomed out of the blackness so suddenly there was no time to change the course of the steamer, which went at full speed into the mountain of ice. The force of the impact was terrible. The steel prow of the liner was crumpled like a piece of tin as it hit the iceberg. The collision bulkhead, the decks were covered with huge fragments of broken ice and wreckage.

Captain Couch made a hasty survey of the damage and headed his ship for St. John's. He succeeded in notifying his agents at Montreal by means of flag signals.

The sea was swept by a heavy storm and the steamer had a hard time making port. Torrents of water poured into the hold through the shattered bow. The pumps, although constantly operating, could scarcely hold their own. The ship reached here in a sinking condition.

Here was the worst wreck that ever entered the harbor. Repairs will require about two months. The steamer carried 4,000 tons of general cargo. Her lower hold, about which the water did not come, was filled with timber, white grain, flour and foodstuffs were on the deck above.

TWO USE RIOT GUN IN JAIL

Prisoners Riddle Keeper's Office With Bullets After Forcing Door and Getting Liquor.

Morrisstown, N. J., Nov. 6.—Two intoxicated prisoners with a riot gun and 1,000 rounds of ammunition held carnival in the Morris county jail here from midnight until dawn Tuesday, terrorizing other inmates and riddling the keeper's office with bullets, and falling in their plan for the murder of another inmate.

Because Sampson and John Burns were drunk, the riot gun was used several other prisoners charged with minor offenses. The two picked the lock of a door which leads into the keeper's office. They found and drank a bottle of liquor that had been taken from a prisoner a few hours before.

Because Sampson and Burns broke into a storeroom and obtained a riot gun and ammunition. Returning to the hospital ward, they closed the iron door and kept firing through it. As each shell contained a number of bullets the keeper's office was riddled.

At daylight keepers entered the jail. They found the inmates in a state of terror. Burns and Sampson were asleep in a corner.

More Important Than Success.

"I'm sorry," replied the unaccountable youngster, "but it's only Wilhelm."

When Kaiser Wilhelm broke into a hearty laugh at the time, the page realized his missed opportunity.—New York Evening Post.

Penalty of Having Too Much Rope.
I note that Mexico is again pestered at the United States by the band of the familiar yarn of the negro who was about to be hanged for the murder of another negro. Peculiar Seller.

Two crows have passed since the Scottish judge Lord Monboddo was born. In his "Origin and Progress of Language" he argued that human language was studied like other animals; but this doctrine seemed to the contemporaries of Dr. Johnson so ridiculous that the wage based many a jest upon it. His belief that men got rid of their tails by sitting upon them would now scarcely raise a smile among anthropologists. Among his more startling propositions was the earnestly maintained one that the orang-outang was a class of the human species, and that its constant of speech was merely accent.

JOHN PURROY MITCHEL ELECTED NEW YORK'S MAYOR

Tammany's Candidate, Edward E. McCall, Swamped
by the Fusion Forces.

SCHENECTADY OUSTS SOCIALIST EXECUTIVE, LUNN

Louisville, Indianapolis, Cleveland and Columbus are Captured by the Democrats, While in Cincinnati and Toledo the Republicans are Victorious—Will, a Progressive, is Chosen Mayor of Syracuse, N. Y.

New York, Nov. 6.—The fusionists swept New York Tuesday and gave Tammany such a drubbing as it has not had in a generation. John Purroy Mitchell was elected mayor over Judge Edward E. McCall, the Tammany candidate, by a plurality of something like 106,012.

It is generally believed that the rule of Charles F. Murphy has come to an end, for the result of the election was a popular protest against his methods of controlling the politics of the metropolis.

Aids Threaten Rebellion. James J. Martin, one of the most powerful leaders in the Tammany organization, declared that the defeat meant the overthrow of Tammany. "It means further," he said, "that Mr. Murphy must walk the plank."

The leader of Tammany made efforts to conceal his realization of the fact that his future leadership depended largely on the casting of the ballots Tuesday. His hope did not lie in the election of mayor. He knew very well that he could not elect the head of the ticket, but he expected to pull through his borough and county tickets and in that way to "save his neck." Now, in the estimation of the Democratic leaders, the time has come for a reorganization.

To add to Murphy's plight, returns from upstate showed that the next assembly will be Republican by a majority of 30 over both Democrats and Progressives.

Mitchell to Fight Murphy. When Mr. Mitchell arrived at fusion headquarters he received an ovation and was kept busy answering the congratulations bestowed upon him.

"What are you going to do about Murphy?" he was asked. "By not recognizing either him or anyone connected with him," Mitchell replied, "I am going to do all I can to drive him out of business."

Edward E. McCall, Tammany candidate for mayor, took the news of his defeat calmly and sent a telegram of congratulation to Mr. Mitchell.

McAneny Aldermanic Head. George McAneny was elected president of the board of aldermen, with the prospect of becoming mayor should anything happen to take Mr. Mitchell away. He won by 50,400 plurality over Joseph A. Goulden, Tammany's candidate.

William A. Prendergast was elected comptroller over Herman A. Metz by about 25,000, due undoubtedly to the attacks directed especially against his candidacy.

Marcus M. Marks was chosen borough president of Manhattan over Dr. Thomas Darlington (Tammany) by 14,000. Tammany even lost its county ticket in New York county. It had lost the board of aldermen.

Fusion candidates will fill all the chairs in the important board of estimates.

mate meetings except that of Queens, where Borough President Connolly, independent Democrat, whom fusion did not endorse, was elected. Nobody, however, expects Tammany to get any benefit from its vote.

In Other New York Cities. Schenectady ousted the Socialist mayor, George R. Lusk, and elected J. Teller Schoolcraft, Citizens' candidate.

The Progressives gained their most striking victory in Syracuse. Louis Will, their candidate, defeated James E. Donlan, Democrat, and Eugene J. Mack, Republican, in a race so close that only a few hundred votes separated all three candidates. Johnstown also elected a Progressive mayor by a plurality of 11 votes.

Other important municipal elections resulted in the victory of the following candidates for mayor: Albany—Joseph G. Stevens (Rep.). Buffalo—Louis F. Fuhrmann (Dem.). Utica—James Smith (Dem.). Troy—Cornelius F. Burns (Dem.). Poughkeepsie—Daniel W. Wilbur (Rep.).

Rochester—Hiram R. Egerton (Rep.). Auburn—Charles W. Brister (Rep. and Prog.).

Amsterdam—James N. Gline (Rep. and Prog.). Rome—H. C. Midlam (Dem.). Watertown—Isaac R. Brown (Rep.). Elmira—Harry N. Hoffman (Fus.).

Spiegel Wins in Cincinnati. Cincinnati, Nov. 6.—One of the most exciting municipal elections in the history of Cincinnati resulted Tuesday in the election of Judge Frederick S. Spiegel, Republican, over Mayor Henry T. Hunt, a candidate for re-election on the Democratic ticket by about 4,000.

The campaign was the hardest ever fought in the city for the control of the city hall.

During his administration Mayor Hunt incurred many enemies by rigid enforcement of laws relating to the saloon business, the social evil and tenementing.

The reports from other cities show the election of George K. Karb, the Democratic candidate for mayor of Columbus, and H. F. Deane, Democrat, as mayor at Youngstown. At Dayton, which has adopted a charter commission, the conservatives were successful in defeating a ticket of five Socialist candidates for membership on that body.

Cleveland Re-Elects Baker. Cleveland, O., Nov. 6.—In the first preferential primary election ever held in Ohio Mayor Newton Baker was returned to his office Tuesday by a greatly reduced majority, about 8,000 on first ballot vote.

Robb, Socialist candidate, polled about 8,000 votes out of a total of 85,000. Under the new Cleveland charter there are no political distinctions on the ballots and a voter can vote a first, second and other choices. To win on the first choice a man must get more than half of all the votes cast.

The city council will be badly split up. Among the new councilmen will be Fred Krohn, former "Golden Rule" chief of police, who was deposed after a trial on the charge of immoral conduct.

Results in other cities of the state were: Toledo—Carl Keller (Rep.), elected mayor.

Findlay—Joseph Dennis (Rep.), re-elected mayor for the tenth time. St. Clairville—Henry M. Davies (Rep.), elected mayor.

Bell is Indianapolis Mayor. Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 6.—This city gave Joseph Bell, the Democratic candidate for mayor, 5,000 plurality; Johnson, Progressive, was second; Bookwalter, Republican, third, Woods, Citizens' candidate, running a bad fourth.

Returns from forty-five towns and cities in the state, exclusive of the Indianapolis election, showed that thirty-two of them had elected Republican mayors, seven had elected Citizens' party candidates as mayors and two had elected Progressive candidates to the majority.

Invitation was extended by the Matton district to convene next year in that city, but the vote decided in favor of Jacksonville in addition to the cordial welcome extended by the three Jacksonville Methodist churches, the convention was given the assurance of the chamber of commerce of the city, a recognition never before extended the women's conference by a body of men.

Two delegates were named, Mrs. S. A. Bullard, 318 South Glenwood avenue, and Mrs. H. L. Haywood, the president, of Panama, to attend the annual meeting of the national board of home missions which will meet at Syracuse, N. Y., in October, 1914.

The officers elected, at the morning session, were, as follows: First vice-president, Mrs. M. B. Lawton of Bloomington; second vice-president, Mrs. S. E. E. Stodder of Decatur; corresponding secretary, Mrs. S. A. Bullard of Springfield; recording secretary, Mrs. D. F. Pawcett of Springfield; treasurer, Mrs. E. J. Stodder of Decatur; young people's secretary, Miss Elsie Moore of Paris; conference organizer, Miss Olive Dunlap of Jacksonville; secretary of home guards and mother's jewels, Miss Allen Day of Mowqua; mile bus secretary, Mrs. A. W. Sisk of Jacksonville; secretary of systematic beneficence, Mrs. S. A. Shaffer of Assumption; secretary reading circle and literature, Mrs. C. C. Kay, Tuscola; secretary of the women's William Thompson of Springfield; secretary evangelism, Mrs. G. S. Tarbot of Arcola; publicity committee, Mrs. J. M. Black of White Hall.

Upon recommendation from the National board which applied equally to all state conferences, it was voted to nominate all constitutions and state officers from the floor, instead of by ballot, as has heretofore been the custom.

Miss Florence Stickle, Springfield, resigned her position as recording secretary, which she has filled for the past four years. In recognition of her faithful service in this office and of her twelve years as secretary of the young people's work, she was made a life member of the Queens Esther circle.

Devotional services were conducted by Mrs. E. B. Randle, 1354 Holmes avenue. Bishop Nathaniel Lockock of Helena, Mont., delivered the closing address, speaking on "Hawaii."

The speaker said that the island stands as the great strategic point in the Pacific, the advance station on the way to the Orient, a training school for western civilization.

The redempting faith in the life of the island, declared Bishop Lockock, "is the force for the uplift of woman."

He spoke of Susanna Wesleyan home at Houshoo, support of the Methodist church, as one of the most efficient educators of the native girls.

"Sun Yat Sen, the eminent Chinese statesman, was educated in a mission school on the island," said the speaker. "We cannot disregard Hawaii, then, for out of her have come great men and women even at this early day in her development."

RELIC OF PREHISTORIC AGE

Discovery in Germany Has Aroused Antiquarians in All Parts of the World.

The bones of a monster believed to be 20,000 years old were recently discovered in the garden of a mansion at Peralve, near Kallin, Germany. This recent find led to the belief that a skull of curious formation, unearthed twelve years ago, was that of a rhinoceros of the Pleistocene period, and probably about 20,000 years old. Authorities have pronounced the head to be that of a prehistoric monster. When the excavations were made there were also discovered parts of a Roman wall, several human skulls and bones, and a rhinoceros skull was found underneath a shed which has been standing for 300 years, and the foundations of which consisted of concrete to a considerable depth. It was in the course of removing this concrete and digging some yards below that the discovery was made. As little importance was attached to it, the skull was given to the gardener who handed it over to his children as a plaything. The lower jaw, teeth, and legs of the animal have now been found. The skull itself is about 36 inches in length, and seems to be water worn. The leg bones are short and thick, and this goes to support the theory that the animal was a rhinoceros.

LIVES IN DEADLY WEAPON

Inventor Will Long Is Remembered as Original of Famous Gatling Gun.

The first of those terrible engines of warfare known as the Gatling gun was invented in 1822 by Richard Jordan Gatling, who was born in North Carolina. Gatling, the son of a rich planter, was well educated, and early devoted himself to scientific work and mechanical experiments. His first device was a screw propeller for steamships, on which, on applying for a patent, he found himself anticipated by Ericsson. Next he contrived a machine for planting rice, wheat and other grain in drills, which proved highly successful. Having used his inventive genius in such a manner as to assist in feeding and preserving humanity, he next set about the task of contriving a machine for killing his fellows. There were crude rapid fire guns in use when Gatling turned his attention to the subject, but they were of little practical value. The Gatling gun, soon led to a revolutionizing of artillery, and until his death the inventor devoted his time almost exclusively to perfecting and manufacturing that formidable weapon, which has been adopted by all the armies of the world. Tens of thousands of graves now attest to the deadly accuracy of the slaying machine invented by Gatling.

Trials of Composers.

They tell of a Scottish composer who fled from Edinburgh to London in order to escape the brain-exhausting gripes and puttings there into type. He had been at work in London for some time, when one day a "take" of Carlyle's copy was given him to set up. The sight of it appalled him. "That man, here, too!" he exclaimed. Whereupon, he laid down his composing stick, put on his coat and hat, and vanished.

Balzac's copy was also a nightmare to composers. According to the London Standard, the failure of the establishment that printed his works was the direct result of the enormous labor spent in making corrections in the proofs of his manuscript. What it meant to put his name to the type is shown by the fact that "César Borgia" had to be reset 16 times in 20 days.—Youth's Companion.

Casals for Shop Girls.

For many years the Count Orban de Pontourin, owner of a stately castle and large grounds in beautiful Touraine, has been entertaining each day in Paris by the sight of thousands of pretty little maidens, dressmakers, seamstresses and shopgirls who come from all over France to the castle, and who, after a day's work, are entertained by the count and his family. Nothing has come of them, they are not to be seen, grew paler from their work in the crowded sewing rooms, he left them, he died recently the castle and its park to the maidens of Paris. He also provided sufficient money to maintain the castle, which was a perpetual home for young girls resting and recreating there. In future any maidens needing a holiday have only to apply and to show that they are not from infamous complaint to be relieved there as a guest free of cost.

HIS SHIP CAME IN

BY AUGUSTUS GOODRICH BIERWIN.

"Wonder of wonders—look at that!" cried Dallas Evans.

"Fair bottom on the face of the water," rejoined Bert Williams, quickly.

"Here, I'll get them—I saw them first."

"How did you get them first?" proclaimed Bert triumphantly.

"Spirits," he was able to explain in the water of the shallow little creek, had seized the cargo of a floating plank, and this, or rather these, he dangled before the eyes of his chum and comrade.

"How did they ever come adrift?" "There's the mystery. And the romance," added Bert, "for whoever were there is certainly a modern Cinderella."

It was of a surety a curious and amusing incident. The two friends, taking their outing at the little town of Reform, had been resting on the bank of the stream when the strange cargo came into view.

"The pretty slippers rested side by side on the plank, folded and placed carefully beside them a pair of dainty silk hose. It was an outfit worthy of a princess—suggestive, indeed, of some fairy-tale Cinderella."

Bert Williams placed his remarkable find in the pocket of the light overcoat he wore and took up his walking stick.

"Hold on. Where are you going?" challenged Evans.

"To locate the owner, of course," responded Bert. "Think I'll miss a romance like this?"

"Sort of a royal prince looking for a Cinderella, eh?" called Evans.

"Take that way—at any rate, a considerably distressed maiden splashing in the brook—dismal plank floats away with her belongings. Gallant knight errant restores the dainty."

"It was not the faintest of the light overcoat he wore and took up his walking stick."

"Meaning the slippers?" "Of course, and the children would wade, and—"

"My ship came in!" alleged the important Bert.

"It was all radiant, and merry, and wholesome—the hayrack troil and the walk in the soft moonlight."

"You knew that you were safe home—just like the fairy godmother!" suggested Bert.

"As far as the gate, then, only," bargained Dolly, "for you must know there is a real practical grandmother."

"I shall make it the prime object of my life to seek her good graces," vowed Bert.

"And thank you for restoring my lost slippers," said Dolly, as they spoke a mutual good-night. "If anybody else had found them."

"They would have been of little use," declared Bert—"Cinderella is rare!"

"Dolly ran into the house, blushing at the compliment."

"Dolly ran into Bert's arms as he came out from an interview with the practical grandmother, one startling evening about a week later."

"It's all right!" declared Bert, exultantly. "You are Cinderella and I am the happy prince—just as it was in the fairy story book!"

WHEN THE STORM THREATENS

Danger is Always Present, and All Be Done to Reduce it to a Minimum.

No place above ground is completely protected against lightning, and the thunder-storm is always a freakish blither, sometimes putting its bolts in the most unexpected and improbable places. There are, however, a few suggestions, the result of practical experience, which may profitably be borne in mind. Be indoors if possible during a thunderstorm, preferably in a large house rather than a shanty or outhouse. Positions near doors and windows and in drafts should be avoided. A barn containing cows or horses is probably more dangerous than the open. Out-of-doors, hedges, streams, isolated trees, crowds of people, wire fences, pole lines carrying wires of any sort, birds of crows, or flocks of sheep, all seem to have a slight attraction for lightning, and are better kept at a distance. Wet clothes, which have something of a reputation as lightning deflectors, probably offer no protection of any value.

So far as treatment of lightning stroke is concerned, there is nothing better than artificial respiration. The method is of great importance. Any series of movements tending alternately to expand and contract the lungs so as to simulate natural breathing will do. But speed in applying is of the utmost importance. The artificial respiration should be commenced immediately and continued until recovery of the body shows that death has certainly won. Usually when lightning kills it does so at the first blow. If it is not, the recovery is usually in the rule.—Illustrated Magazine.

"When I started in life, young man," said the retired old wall contractor, "I worked twelve hours a day."

"Yes," replied the son, "but in those rapid times anyone who took twelve hours to do a day's work would get fired."

The residents of the immediate locality were the hosts. It was when Bert Williams introduced to some of them that he made a discovery that added new interest to the scene.

"Miss Wyman, Mr. Williams"—and Bert found himself bowing to the barefooted refugee of the brookside. The face had looked pretty at a distance. Near at hand the ardent young man noted her fairly ravishing.

There was a fitting shadow across those features that Bert noticed at once. Sympathetically she did not recognize him as the alarming challenger of the afternoon. When he asked her to become his partner in the next dance, she declined on the grounds of indisposition. Bert involuntarily glanced down in the direction of her feet. They were out of view, concealed under the folds of her dress. Her eyes followed the dancers longingly. Sympathetic idealist that he was, Bert read promptly what was going on in the mind of Miss Dolly Wyman.

"Do you believe in fairy tales, Miss Wyman?" he asked, abruptly, and she regarded him strangely at this unusual conversational disclosure.

"Why—I don't know," she answered in an uncertain tone.

"Her face turned scarlet. And Cinderella! Ah!" declared Bert with half-jocular enthusiasm, "there was a girl worth perpetuating in fiction."

"It cured me of a dreadful cough," writes Mrs. J. F. Davis, Stickney Corner, Me., "after doctor's treatment and all other remedies had failed." Excellent for coughs, colds or any bronchial affection.

Mrs. A. F. Mertz, of Glen Ellyn, la., writes: "I had a hard, stubborn cough that I had doctored for over six weeks without my getting any better. Our druggist finally recommended Dr. King's New Discovery and my husband bought a dollar bottle. After using two-thirds of it my trouble eased down, and it was not long till I was completely cured.
Dr. King's New Discovery surely deserves all the praise it gets." Sold by day evening.

moved from the Broadway house to Cook and Russell streets to the Klison
flat on Station street.

Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Sodi left Tuesday for Lexington, Oregon, where they will spend the winter with their daughter, Mrs. Chris Christensen.

The members of the Merri Octavus card club are arranging a series of dances to be given this winter. The first one will probably be held in a few weeks.

Mrs. August Klein spent Saturday and Sunday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. George Landwer of Irving Park, who has just recovered from an attack of diphtheria.

The local Order of Eastern Star will give a "hard times" party at their ball Friday evening, November 21. Genio-mice will be included and many outsiders will be invited.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Maynard have moved from the Marshall house to the house in the rear of Schauble's shop recently vacated by Mr. Maynard's mother, who has moved to the Peck
flat on Station street.

Miss Grace Freeman entertained a large company of her friends at her home at a Halloween party last week Thursday. Quite elaborate preparations had been made and everyone seemed to have a good time.

Mrs. A. E. Benton has left Smith Center, Iowa, where she has passed the summer with George M. Church, and is now visiting with her brother, Charles Church, at Osgo, Iowa. She writes under date of October 30: "We have had considerable snow and it is very cold here for the time of the year."

Marshall Peters secured Charles Hutchinson and F. J. Kramer to serve as night watchmen Halloween and the evening passed off very quietly. The only act of vandalism committed was the removal of a sign belonging to Mr. Munday from his subdivision to a down town corner. Several parties furnished amusement for the young people.

A team of horses belonging to W. I.
Martin and driven by one of his men,
ran away while in town last Saturday morning and broke a city water hydrant on Walnut street. When informed of the affair Mr. Martin signified his willingness to pay for the hydrant and cost of installing.
His wagon was damaged slightly but neither horse was injured.

Two New Tailors.

There is no longer any excuse for Barringtonians going about with shabby clothes and baggy trousers at the knees, for the town supply of tailors has been augmented by two. Math Peck has secured a helper and William Francis, manager of the men's furnishing goods department of A. W.
Meyer's store has employed a tailor and thus there is now ready to do repairing, cleaning, pressing and drying
as well as furnishing new clothes.

Saved His Foot.

H. D. Elly, of Benton, O., suffered from horrible ulcer on his foot for four years. Doctors advised amputation, but he refused and reluctantly tried Hocklen's Arnica Balm as a last resort.
He then wrote: "I used your ointment and my foot was soon completely cured."
Best remedy for burns, cuts, bruises, eczema. Get a box today. Only 25c.

ON THE WRONG TRAIL

By FRANCES SMITH.

Aspeop of the leading incident here in related, I will say that I was never other than a theoretical sportsman.

The only one I ever had, except getting enough to eat, was a love affair in my early twenties. The object of my affections was a little brunette with more brains than sentiment, and more brains than either.

had two rivals: Mr. Bonny, minister, whose physique, finances and prospects were light; Mr. Meade, grocer, whose physique, prospects, and finances were heavy.

When my ardor had reached the speaking point, I said:

"Madge, will you marry?"

"Yes," said Madge.

"My darling," I murmured, "how I love you."

"Well," she murmured back, "what
of it?"

"Why, we are going to be one, aren't we?"

"It appears to me that you are already won," she smiled. "Who is the other one?"

"You."

"Who?"

"You."

"Me?"

"Yes, me—I mean you!"

"Oh." At last she understood.

"Where are we all three going to live? You know, Mr. Bonny—"

A horrible fear smote me. "Great heavens!" I cried, "is he going to marry you, too?"

"That's what he said," answered
Madge.

"He never shall!" I swore. "I'll kill him like I would a— a— a—"

"I think Madge laughs too much sometimes."

The idea of my killing a body-fellow! I'll tell you what I'll do—I'll marry the first one of you that does kill a buffalo!

I would rather Madge had accepted me
in a more conventional manner, but suppressing all selfish consideration, I cried: "Done!" and was off to challenge Bonny. He accepted readily.

A week later found us camped in the then sparsely buffalo-settled region of Colorado. The first day we spent trying to get suggestions relative to buffalo hunting. These suggestions were discussed over our coffee that evening.

"Cowboys (all men west of the Mississippi were cowboys to him) are cowards," said Bonny. "I asked one of them if you were I where would you go to hunt buffalo?" "Where I would be least likely to find them," he replied. "My good man," said I, kindly, "tell me how you do bring down a buffalo." He took another chew of tobacco and quivering one eye, replied: "I shoot them in their tracks."

That is the best place for you to shoot a buffalo, young man, right in its tracks, and the older the tracks are, the better."

My own information had been more practical. I had been told to leave my buffalo and tie it to the nearest tree,
where I could shoot it without danger.
"At least to the buffalo," my informant added smilingly.

Unfortunately, I forgot my lasso the next morning and had to depend entirely upon my gun.

While we junched Bonny was apparently seized with an attack of delirium tremens.

"Buffalo, buffalo!" he shrieked, and danced about.

"A cluster of them?" I asked.

"Only a solitary," he shouted, "but it's mine," and mounting his horse he backed rapidly away, presumably to keep the buffalo in sight while he circled it. Rival as he was, I had to admit that it was the tactic of a brave man.

As for me, I bodily started toward the buffalo. I had gone but a short distance when I came to an old dugout which had partly filled, leaving enough ingress for a man nearly half my size to crawl through. The animal, scenting danger, approached me.
Fearing lest I frighten it away, I got as far as I could into the dugout. The buffalo came on, its head lowered, its tail furiously lashing at the flies on until it was within twenty feet of me!

I slipped the rest of the way into the dugout, and through my heart beat like a sledge hammer, I coolly put my gun to my shoulder, braced myself firmly against the farthest wall, and with bated breath watched the majestic creature move slowly by and out of range of my gun. I wanted to pounce, but found that it would require an hour's work with my knife to enlarge the apertures sufficiently for me to get out. When I did get out, the buffalo had escaped, and in the distance I beheld Bonny spearing his horse to full speed. I was disgusted with Bonny. Why should he sit calmly on his horse within a mile of the buffalo, let it escape him, and then exhibit such trepidation because it had done so?

On the return I found a couple of men skinning buffaloes. I bought a hide, went on and was first to reach camp. Pretty soon Bonny arrived.

"Well," said he.

"What do you think of that?" and he unrolled a fresh hide.

"I think you are about as smart as I am," I earnestly answered. "Where did you shoot your buffalo?"

"Right in its tracks!" said Bonny.

While we glared at each other a "solitary" telegram was brought us. It read:

"Don't slay buffalo. I have married Madge—B. Meade."

First Mausoleum in Asia.
The first mausoleum was made in Asia Minor. Artemisia married her brother, Xerxes, King of Persia, in Asia Minor, about 477 B. C. After his death his body was burned and she drank in liquor his ashes, and erected to his memory at Halicarnassus a monument, one of the seven wonders of the world, which was termed Massoleum. The statue of Mausoleus was among the antiquities brought from Halicarnassus by C. T. Newton in 1867, and placed in the British museum.
