WHAT THE DISEASE COST OLD COUNTRIES

Dr. George Lytle Contradicts Statement That Foot-and-Mouth Disease Is Treated Lightly in Europe.

LOSS IS BILLIONS OF DOLLARS

Judge Irwin of Elgin Granted Injunction Restraining State Officials from Killing Cattle at Geneva.

The foot-and-mouth situation in Illinois is not as satisfactory as it was expected to be, or as it was hoped some weeks ago, the disease has spread somewhat in the territory about different points of infection, and the stamping out and quarantine program of the State and Federal authorities is meeting with some opposition from the members of the Milk Producers' association, and other dairymen in the Fox River valley. Judge Irwin of Elgin granted an injunction restraining the State Veterinarian and the State Board of Live Stock Commissioners from slaughtering the herds of cattle owned by the Illinois State Farm for Girard, Geneva, of St. Charles, Ill. Judge Irwin of Elgin granted an injunction restraining the State Veterinarian and the State Board of Live Stock Commissioners from slaughtering the herds of cattle owned by the Illinois State Farm for Girard, Geneva, of St. Charles, Ill.

The situation in Europe, however, is really desperate. The extensive spread which marked the first appearance of the malady has been checked, and all recent infections have been carried from the few primary centers by individuals, dogs, birds, or infected milk, and might have been easily prevented had the proper precautions been taken.

It is not clear just what is expected to be gained by the opposition to the slaughter of infected herds. To be sure the loss to the owners is considerable, and it seems a bit heartless to take a man's herd out and shoot it down, but it is not nearly so heartless as what a man off from all intercourse with the world because his cattle happen to be sick, and the loss incident to an effective quarantine would be correspondingly large. It is estimated that the cost of holding the pure bred cattle to Chicago will be well over $200 per head before they are finally released. To feed cattle month after month without getting returns from them would be as disastrous as to have them slaughtered.

There is also another side of this question to be considered. Suppose we were to act upon the suggestion of E. J. Fellows of St. Charles, Illinois, president of the Milk Producers' association, in the Milk News. "It is told that when the disease gets into a herd, in the old country it is the common practice to expose the whole herd by putting some of the saliva from an infected animal on the inside of the upper lip of the healthy ones to hasten the progress of the disease through the herd and have the trouble over with as soon as possible." This statement while doubtless true, conveys the impression that foot-and-mouth disease is a simple fever which soon passes away without any serious damage to the herd.

The late Dr. Leonard Pearson perhaps the greatest veterinary authority in this country, in a report printed for distribution in 1908 gives us some idea of what this disease is costing Germany and other "old countries." He says: "It was estimated in 1875 by Flemming, the great English authority, that the losses to the farmers of England from foot-and-mouth disease amounted, upon a very conservative basis of appraisal, to $5,000,000,000. The loss upon each herd attacked by this disease amounts to from 20 to 50 per cent of its value."

"During twelve years, up to 1906, the losses to German farmers from this cause amounted to well over $100,000,000,000, and the cost to the government of measures applied to control the disease was about $3,000,000,000." Dr. Pearson closes the paragraph with this significant statement: "England has had no foot-and-mouth disease since 1901," and England used the method best employed during this outbreak to eradicate it.

In picturing countries where this disease exists, he says: "In a district where foot-and-mouth disease exists there is trouble and much confusion, and the disease is eradicated, a state of unrest and uncertainty with relation to all operations affecting live stock. No one can force when the herd will be attacked, and the animal brought to market, or the farmer who has been unable to develop the disease, any purchase, no unity of animals of a certain species, but of every breed, and of every grade. The loss which has been suffered from this disease is incalculable, and the loss that result under such circumstances, destroy all security and profit, and lead to a great restriction in cattle trade and cattle keeping. Instances are numerous, in which owners of pure bred herds have sold their cattle as a result of the loss and discouragement of the disease. Surely, we do not wish such a condition for America, and it seems wisdom on the part of all cattle owners to clean up this trouble as quickly and thoroughly as possible, for serious though the present state of affairs is, there are nothing compared to those which are likely to follow if this disease gets a firm foothold in Illinois. It betrays every dairymen in infected districts to give every assistance to the officials in preventing the spread of the disease and in getting infected animals under the ground as speedily as possible and the premises disinfected. It is the duty of men to keep their heads and not let personal prejudice run away with them. Meanwhile keep strangers off the farm and keep employees away from other herds. Use disinfectants freely.

Deed Against Westfield.

Judge Arthur H. Frost, circuit judge of this district, Monday admitted his decision in the costly transfer inheritance law and interest matter, a litigation that has been carried on in Lake County as against former County Treasurer Carl P. Westfield.

The circuit judge ruled that, in both cases, that of the interest on public funds and on confidence in the fees do not go to a county treasurer, but belong to the county. In other words he ruled against Mr. Westfield. The decision of Judge Frost was read by Judge Edwards who after reading same ordered judgment entered against Mr. Westfield. The case has been appealed.

A Ski Jump at Cary, January 31.

Illinois is to see the most wonderful ski tournament in history on January 31. It is to be held at Cary hill. Famous and daring riders of both professional and amateur classes are to appear, and it is believed that a record of two will go by the board. This is the latest event will be held under the auspices of the Norge club of Chicago.

Last year the local club's jumpers scored the most points of any club in the country, and they are out practicing on the big Cary hill in order to bring the points still higher this season.

The Norge club's new captain, Pinar Jensen, tried the hill 17 times without a fall, and Arne Steiner still has a fall. Captain Knut Johnson, who is in fine condition and a challenger for the national amateur championship contest to be held at Duluth, Minnesota, February 6, and 7.

The present world's and national professional champion, Ragnar Ormstad, is in better condition now than ever before and is going to participate in every tournament to be held in this country this season.

The entry list for the men's ice skating and curling is the officials of the club, will probably reach seventy-five for both classes before closed.

The bill at Cary is in fine condition this year and it is expected the record Olympic mark of 100 feet will be broken.

MEMBERS OF CONGRESS SLACK IN ATTENDANCE

Congressman Thompson of Tenth District Writes Letter Explaining Conduct of Members of the House.

SALARIES SHOULD BE "DOCKED"

"Lame Ducks" as Dejected Members Are Known Are Usually the Ones Who Stay Away From Sessions.

If a member of congress is to perform the service which his constituents have a right to expect of him, he must naturally be in Washington attending to his duties during the sessions of Congress. The question of "absentees" is a serious one, and my observation of the past few weeks leads me to believe that it is particularly so during the short or "lame duck" session.

It will be interesting to note the following facts with reference to the attendance of the twenty-six members of the house from Illinois for the present session which began December 7. Thirteen members (just half the delegation) have been here all the time. Of this number eight were re-elected at the last election and five are "lame ducks." I confess that I am not one of those thirteen. Three members, two of whom are "lame ducks" have been here all the time except for the Christmas recess and four other members, all re-elected, were absent the first week of the session, and also during the Christmas recess. Two of these members left two or three days before the recess began and returned two or three days after congress had reconvened at the close of the recess.

One member, defeated in November, has been here for all the session except the first week and for the One member was here from the beginning of the session till December 23. He returned to Illinois on that day and has not been here since. He was also defeated in November.

Another "lame duck" has not been in Washington during this session as yet. Another appeared for the first time on Wednesday of this week. Still another has been away all the time up to Thursday of this week with the exception of December 22 when the vote was taken on the Hobson resolution.

Finally, a member who was re-elected in November, appeared in the house for the first time in this session, on December 21, voted on the prohibition resolution on the following day, then left for home and has not returned up to the present time. He was re-elected in November, appeared in the house for the first time in this session, on December 21, voted on the prohibition resolution on the following day, then left for home and has not returned up to the present time.

And yet some of these Illinois members, who have been absent so much of the time are on some of the most important committees of the house, committees that have been in almost daily session preparing annual reports, bills appropriating hundreds of millions of dollars. On Thursday of this week votes were taken in the House on ten or a dozen of the most vital of the amendments added to the immigration bill by the various amendments, and being offered to pending appropriation bills in the House and are being voted upon almost every day, affecting the expenditure of hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Private matters come up now and then which make an absence of a few days almost unavoidable. But absence of weeks in length are without excuse when members are collecting their salaries for work they are not doing and at the same time are making money at home in their private business which they are giving their time and attention.

The federal statutes provide that the president at arms of the house shall deduct from the monthly payment of each member, the amount of his salary for each day that he has been absent from the house unless the absence is caused by sickness of the member or of some member of his family.

This law is usually disregarded. Toward the end of the last session when members were anxious to get home and many would leave to get into their campaigns or to enjoy a rest at the seashore, it was hard to find a ministerial quorum in the house. To enforce the attendance of members, Mr. Underwood introduced a resolution and called it up for vote on January 25. It read in part: "That the president of the house do enforce the law requiring members to deduct from the salary of the members their daily compensation when they are absent for other cause than sickness of themselves or their families." That was known as house resolution 60. The house passed it, and the official in question enforced it.

By the middle of October, the house had acted on an important bill of the administration program and the main

WAR LOOMS AHEAD OF US.

It is a fact!

Grim war confronts us.

And the staging is set for the gentle springtime, when the daisies bloom and the silver throated birds break forth into song.

And it will be a battle royal.

The American Fashion League, has decreed that the shirtwaist must go.

It is to be a thing of the past; must be seen no more.

At least such is the dictum of the fashion league.

But American womanhood is up in arms and is girding for the fray.

Womanhood says NO.

The shirtwaist is dear to the feminine heart—and that which appeals to the feminine heart is right—must be right—we men declare it right, and it must prevail.

patrons did not pay their bills.

But Chicago is no different from other parts of the country in that respect.

It is the way of a queer world.

The poor man pays because he must.

The rich man owes, because his wealth grants him immunity from vulgar dues.

The poor man pays his taxes because he must pay or lose his few possessions.

The rich man hides most of his wealth and dodges the majority of his taxes, because under our present system he millions place him practically above the law.

Of course officials whose business it is to enforce the law will take issue with this statement. But it is true—and they know it, and you know it.

And the common people, who are rarely in the majority, are becoming weary of such practices, and the murmurs and mutterings are becoming louder every day.

Some day the explosion will come.

WHAT OF MEXICO?

What are we to do about Mexico?

We want no war with that country, and yet the American patience has almost reached the breaking point.

Property of Americans is being daily destroyed, our citizens are being insulted and assaulted, commerce is a wasteland, and American business interests are suffering untold loss in that land of anarchy.

There is no established government, and might is right.

Military bandits are in control, and honor has been kicked into the discard.

Insults are being heaped upon our troops at the border and Mexican bullets are singing over American territory.

The president is making every effort to reach some peaceful solution, but apparently without avail.

How long is patience a virtue, anyway?

LIGHT IN THE HORIZON.

The United States is slowly but surely emerging from a period of keen financial stringency and commercial distress.

It has been felt by all classes of people, in every part of a society.

But light is at last showing in the distance, and relief is in sight.

But it will require yet a little more patience on the part of the people, and a united effort and determination to wrest prosperity from chaos.

Those who expect to see an instant transformation from stringency to boundless wealth will of course meet with disappointment.

But commercial and financial experts are all agreed that the next six months will see the United States in the midst of an era of unprecedented prosperity.

In the meantime let us be patient—and work.

Guns in Salute.

The number of guns fired in salute are: The president, 21; vice-president, 19; senator, congressman and vice-admiral, 15; rear-admiral, 13; major, 11; commodore, 11; captain, 9; commander, 7. The cost of firing the greatest guns, including the wear and tear on the gun, amounts to over a thousand dollars.

Getting Up.

When you find an unwillingness to rise in the morning, make this short speech to yourself: "I am getting up now to do the business of a man; and am I out of humor for going about that which I was made for?"

Was I then designed for nothing but to doze and batten beneath the counterpane."—Marcus Aurelius.

Too Short an Acquaintance.

"Of course, I don't wish to put any obstacle in the way of your getting married," a mistress said to her servant, "but I wish it were possible for you to postpone it until I get another maid."

"Well, mum," Mary Ann replied, "I hardly think I know 'im well enough to ask 'im to put it off."—London Standard.

One Benefit of Wealth.

The man who has a million dollars and feels poor may be more unfortunate than the guy who has several dollars and feels rich, but the millionaire has a more intimate acquaintance with that part of the anatomy of a steer from which the porthouse is cut.—Houston Post.

Waste No Time.

Our advice to the young man is this: If the girl he wants comes into the parlor a little late and offers the excuse she has been waiting for her mother wash the dishes, rush her to the parlor as soon as possible if her reputation for truth and veracity is to be saved.—Houston Post.

Substitute for the Bedroom.

Rosemary Has Learned.

Rosemary, aged two, was being brought up carefully by a mother who did not approve of slang. She had always played alone, but had recently had as a playmate a group of little neighbor boys. Shortly afterward her dignified grandfather came to the door as she was being put to bed, and said, "Good night, baby." Her mother's horror may easily be imagined when she heard her daughter call, "Good night, dampa, old kid."

Cost of Civil War.

The actual cost of the great Civil war in the United States will never be known except approximately. It is safe to say, however, that the expenditure in actual money on both sides was more than eight billion dollars, besides an economic loss to the whole country of about thirty billion dollars. The loss in life from bullets and disease was about a million.

Excelsior.

"You can never tell these days," remarked the man in the armchair, "where the uplift will bob up next. Every time there are several consecutive days of rain and gloomy weather I expect to read how a committee of earnest persons has got together and organized a Society for the Promotion of Higher Barometric Conditions."

Honors Were Even.

Ethel (tossing her head)—"A kiss? Certainly not. I never kissed a man in my life." Jack—"You've nothing on me; I never did either."—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Taxing Bank Deposits.
In view of the recent newspaper agitation about the taxing of savings deposits the directors of the First State Bank of Barrington have asked the attorney to call public attention to the fact that never since the organization of the bank, have John C. Plagge or E. W. Riley, the successors respectively for Barrington and Cuba townships or any of the other directors of the bank, examined the deposit ledger of the bank, or made any inquiry to learn what any customer had on deposit. The directors believe that knowledge of these matters should be confined to the customer and no other member.

Don't Cheat the Child's Crib.
John C. Plagge, Secretary.

Don't let your child sleep in a crib that is not safe. Don't let your child sleep in a crib that is not safe. Don't let your child sleep in a crib that is not safe.

NEIGHBORHOOD ITEMS.

The West McHenry bank is erecting a new building.

There are forty-five standard schools in McHenry county.

The Woodstock hospital has been moved recently into its new quarters.

The Harvard Anti-Horse Thief association has now been in existence ten years and not a horse has been stolen during that time.

Gen. W. Coss is now editing the Woodstock Republican, Editor W. H. Simpson having resigned his position as editor of that paper.

The merchants of Richmond have engaged the services of a night watchman, who entered upon his duties at this village last week.

The small port plague seems to be on the wane in Harvard, there being no new cases within the last two weeks and only two places where quarantine exists and both of those are very mild cases.

For the first time in many years the census was frozen over in December. The ice last month was seven inches thick, while at the present time several inches have been added.

A conditional donation of $30,000 was given the Lake Forest college by John D. Rockefeller, Monday. The conditions under which this donation was made is the same as one made from the same source last year. The school must raise an additional $500,000. At one time it was understood that Rockefeller had made an annual donation of $50,000 to the Lake county school; however it was learned that this was not the case—Highland Park Press.

Mar Call Jurors by Mail!
Men and women called for jury service may be notified of their selection by mail, if the Illinois statute is amended by the present legislature as is planned. Women may be drawn into the jury list as well as men. Those who favor calling jurors by mail say that it would eliminate a part of the expense of operating the courts.

The plan is to advise by mail of the prospective jurors that they have been summoned to act on the jury. With the communication could be included request as to the possibility of the man serving in the capacity of a juror. Various questions could be asked which would determine whether the citizen was qualified to act as a juror.

The adoption of the movement would be of economy in this county and would do much to well received throughout the county, as there are many citizens who go to Waukegan in answer to a summons whose occupation, habits, race, physical or mental defects prevent them from serving and they are paid by the county for going.

Under the present system the prospective juror is notified by subpoena that he has been selected to act on the jury. The juror is then notified to appear in the jury room on a set day. There it is determined whether the man is qualified or not to act on the jury.

Try this for Neuralgia.
Thousands of people keep on suffering with neuralgia because they do not know what to do for it. Neuralgia is a pain in the nerves. What you want to do is to soothe the nerve itself. Apply Sloan's Liniment to the surface over the painful part—do not rub it in. Sloan's Liniment penetrates very closely to the nerve, irritates nerve and always the inflammation. Get a bottle of Sloan's Liniment for 25¢ at any drug store and have it in the house—against colds, sore and swollen joints, lumbago, neuralgia, toothache, headache, rheumatism, back if not satisfied, but it does give almost instant relief.

Do such a thing! He has been brought up in a refined home and—
"That may be," says she, still distressed, but if you like I'll send Herbert down to show you the red swellings on his head!"

"He probably got them falling down stairs or something," I told her. "And I'd thank him not to be accusing my Ronald of things he's too well brought up to do!"

"She wouldn't let Herbert come down to play with Ronald after that and Ronald gets so lonely. So I told him he must return good for evil and he could take his wood carving and go up there. In an hour he came home crying as though his heart would break. He said Mrs. Scuddle had told him to go home and he hadn't been doing a thing! Just as I was telling him he must learn that there were all kinds of wicked people in the world that woman called down the back stairs. She said she had sent Ronald home because after he had carved the things all over her parlor that she had just swept up and cut a hole in her oriental rug, he had turned his attention to carving the posts on her gashogony bed."

"And just this morning—that creature actually laid hands on my child! She boxed his ears and Ronald's always so tenderly cared for at home! Boxed my child's ears! She dragged him down and brought him into my kitchen and told me to keep him at home and said that when she went to take in her milk and cream she found him boxed his ears and that she had broken off every nasturtium plant in her flower boxes! Ronald explained that he was playing balls in the woods starting to death, living on herbs and goat's milk."

"I said," Mrs. Scuddle, I hope your conscience won't torment you too much for your cruelty to an innocent child!"

"And she just snuffed! I shook for an hour after! I certainly wonder why some people are so hard on the world! Oh, I get off here!"—Chicago Daily News.

Cary Youth Badly Injured.

Leo Daley, 18-year-old son of Thomas W. Daley, proprietor of the widely known hotel and pleasure resort on Fox river near Cary, received injuries which are declared to be fatal in an unusual accident near his home early Sunday evening.

Young Daley was taking a couple of hog racks to his home on a bob sled, preparatory to shipping some hogs to Chicago next morning. He stood between the racks as he drove the team. In rounding a corner, one of the racks struck a telephone pole violently. The racks came together much as the blades of a pair of scissors and Daley was crushed between them.

According to Dr. H. H. Pillinger of Algonquin, who was called, his ribs and kidneys were badly crushed and he received other internal injuries.

Old Fellows Association Meets.

The annual reports were read and after the election of officers there was a supper served by the Libertyville lodge. The evening was spent in having a general good time. It was decided to have the next meeting at Highland Park on February 9.

SORROWS OF FLAT LIFE

By ELIZABETH AYERS.

"Oh my!" gasped the stout woman as she sank into the seat beside the man with the green eyes on her hat. "How nice that I caught this car! I haven't seen you for an age, and I'm just dying to hear all about what you've been doing! I'm so upset this morning I scarcely know what I'm about—I don't see how some people on this earth ever expect to get to heaven, treating innocent little children the way they do! And when she moved in I thought she was the love-lest—why I'm talking of Mrs. Scuddle in the flat above us! One of these little doll-like creatures with baby eyes, you know—but you never can tell, never! My dear that woman!"

"The flat had been vacant so long that my Ronald was terribly disturbed when she moved in. Her back had been such a lovely place for his trains of cars and carpenter tools and then I was able to keep my own seat. I've got it all fixed up with a hammock and chairs and a rug and plants and it's too cozy for anything!"

"When I found she wasn't going to make an outdoor sitting room of hers I thought it would be all right for Ronald to take his cars up there, especially as she has a boy of her own! But the first thing I knew she had sent them out in the back yard and Ronald is so sensitive to dampness! I've spoken to the janitor about his sprinkling the grass so wet, but he is so stubborn I can't make him stop! Mrs. Scuddle said she couldn't stand two boys racketing and pounding around."

"The first real trouble," continued the stout woman, "was when Mrs. Scuddle came down and said in that distinct little voice of hers that she wished I would instruct Ronald not to be so rough. She said he hit Herbert on the head several times with the iron engine and she had told Herbert never to fight a smaller boy so that he couldn't do anything to protect himself."

"Mrs. Scuddle," said I, "my Ronald is a little gentleman and would never do such a thing! He has been brought up in a refined home and—"

"That may be," says she, still distressed, but if you like I'll send Herbert down to show you the red swellings on his head!"

"He probably got them falling down stairs or something," I told her. "And I'd thank him not to be accusing my Ronald of things he's too well brought up to do!"

"She wouldn't let Herbert come down to play with Ronald after that and Ronald gets so lonely. So I told him he must return good for evil and he could take his wood carving and go up there. In an hour he came home crying as though his heart would break. He said Mrs. Scuddle had told him to go home and he hadn't been doing a thing! Just as I was telling him he must learn that there were all kinds of wicked people in the world that woman called down the back stairs. She said she had sent Ronald home because after he had carved the things all over her parlor that she had just swept up and cut a hole in her oriental rug, he had turned his attention to carving the posts on her gashogony bed."

"And just this morning—that creature actually laid hands on my child! She boxed his ears and Ronald's always so tenderly cared for at home! Boxed my child's ears! She dragged him down and brought him into my kitchen and told me to keep him at home and said that when she went to take in her milk and cream she found him boxed his ears and that she had broken off every nasturtium plant in her flower boxes! Ronald explained that he was playing balls in the woods starting to death, living on herbs and goat's milk."

"I said," Mrs. Scuddle, I hope your conscience won't torment you too much for your cruelty to an innocent child!"

"And she just snuffed! I shook for an hour after! I certainly wonder why some people are so hard on the world! Oh, I get off here!"—Chicago Daily News.

TOMPSON SCORES CONGRESSMAN

tenance of a quorum was of no great importance, except when the time came to pass the resolution of final adjournment. On October 15, that month Mr. Underwood introduced another resolution and called it up for a vote. It read as follows: "Resolved, That house resolution 601 directing the sergeant at arms to enforce section 401 of the revised statutes of the United States, is hereby repealed." This resolution was promptly passed. What a farce!

Is it any wonder that members absented themselves for weeks without excuse, when congress itself plays fast and loose with the law in that fashion? One of the modern shortcomings common among the people, is a lack of respect or regard for the law. In such a condition strange when Congress, the greatest law-making body in the world, not only flagrantly disregards the law prescribed for itself, but goes to the length of solemnly directing one of its officers to enforce the law and then with equal solemnity, formally revokes its direction to him and advises him to resume his practice of winking at it?

SCHOOL NOTES

Virginia Babcock and Earl Virden have entered third grade.

Say our school isn't growing! Room one has enrolled five new pupils.

Room two is studying the Eskimos, constructing Eskimo houses and people and writing stories of their life.

The pupils of room 4, who are hard workers in attendance and punctuality, received a half holiday Friday.

(This stereopticon slides were used in connection with the seventh grade geography work to show more clearly the countries of Norway and Sweden.

The third number of the course will be given January 22, the entertainer being the well known magician, Edward Keno, who appeared on his year's course.

Tuesday during the opening exercises Miss Gardner gave an illustrated talk to the high school seventh and eighth grades on "Famous Pictures." The talk was very instructive, also giving us the history of each picture as it was shown on the screen.

Friday evening the second number of Lyceum course was given in the high school hall. A report was first given by the treasurer of the baseball team which has charge of the course this year (a which he asked his thankfulness toward the people who had responded so readily in the subscription of the tickets. The entertainers of the evening were the Bolander orchestra which rendered a program well liked by its audience.

Report of attendance and punctuality for the past week. To compute the percentage on basis is considered equivalent to two days absence.

Wednesday during the opening exercises the high school seventh and eighth grades had the privilege of listening to Dr. George Lytle, U. S. Inspector of Banks. He spoke on the subject, "Feeding of the Army." The United States has a little less than one hundred thousand men to feed, which is one great task of our government. These men are scattered in different parts of the country. There are few divisions in the U. S. the eastern which takes in the eastern coast down to Brownsville, Texas, the western which extends along the western coast, the central which covers that between the coasts down to Oklahoma, and the southern which takes in that south of that covered by the central. The United States also has troops in the Philippines, Hawaii and Porto Rico. The cost of feeding a man per day is 23 cents and it must not exceed this amount. The he is on the march it would amount to more but it must not exceed thirty cents. Under these circumstances each man has enough nourishment for his body under all conditions. There are a few of the many points of which Dr. Lytle spoke, which show one great work of our government.

Daily Thought.
Let every dawn of morning be to you as the beginning of life, and every setting sun be to you as its close, then let every one of these short lives leave its sure record of some kindly thing done for others, some kindly strength or knowledge gained for yourself.—Ruskin.

Children's Coughs—Children's Colds Both are Serious.
When one of your little ones has symptoms of an approaching cold, give it Dr. Bell's Cough-Tar-Bronch at once. It acts quickly, soothes the inflamed lining, breaks the mucus, soothes the lungs, loosens the mucous, soothes the system. It is guaranteed. Only 25c a bottle. Get it today. Buckle's America's Greatest Remedy.

The Unhistoric Acts.

Her full nature, like the river of which Alexander broke the strength, spent itself in channels which had no great name on the earth. But the effect of her being on those around her was incalculably beneficial for the growing good of the world is partly dependent on unhistoric acts; and that things are not so ill with you and me as they might have been, is half owing to the number who lived faithfully a hidden life, and rest in unvisited tombs.—George Eliot.

Modern Mercenary.

You should think of our illustrious ancestors who steered this ship of the republic through the troubled waters. "You kind of losing respect for my illustrious ancestors," retorted Senator Borah. "Too many of them were inclined to boast that they left politics poorer than they were when they accepted office."—Washington Star.

Live as on a Mountain.

Live as on a mountain, for it makes no difference whether a man lives here or there. Be like the promontory against which the waves continually break, but it stands firm and tames the fury of the water around it.—Marcus Aurelius.

Russian Sport.

Russian races are good races on foot, during the long winter when sport is wanted they are aided with a special kind of light shoes with sharp cables and speed on the top. It was said that their race is often aided.

Drawing the Line.

"How about a tar roof for your hotel?" asked the agent. "Not in this town," declared the landlord of the Unhappyville house. "The boys have already carried off half my beds for tar-and-feather parties. I don't want you to begin on my roof."

Knew Better Than to Say It.

"Oh, dear," groaned the young wife, "I don't know what to use to make my bread, I've tried everything." "A duck and a couple of jackknives ought to do it," thought her husband, but he didn't say it aloud.

Easy to Live Single.

The simplest man or woman can live splendidly. That is the royal truth we need to believe, you and I, who have no "miserable" and no pride, where to move in.—William C. Cunniff.

Common Knowledge.

Slater "I'm writing a composition on dogs. Can you tell me anything about them?" Small Brother—"Well, there's one thing about dogs everyone ought to know, and that is, lie."

Thorough Reading.

A few books well studied and thoroughly digested nourish the understanding more than hundreds of paragraphs read in the mouth, as ordinary students use.—Osborn.

The Dividing Line.

A statement is a proposition with whom you agree. A politician is a statesman with whom you disagree.—Lyle.

Pay High for Optimism.

In the market of Lines optimism is said to be sold for its weight in silver.

England's Oldest Port.

Polynesia is probably the oldest port in England. It was used by Phoenicians at least twenty-five hundred years ago.

The Laborer's Argument.

Talk to any leader long enough and he will tell you a poor man has no chance.—Atchison Globe.

Island of Cyprus.

The island of Cyprus has been identified by scholars with the Chitima of the Bible and it is recorded that Hiram, King of Tyre, who assisted Solomon in the building of the temple at Jerusalem, had to put down a Phoenician, who had refused to pay tribute. It is more than possible that some of the copper used in the Solomon temple came from Cyprus, for it was only a day's sail from the mainland, and at that time was under Phoenician control.

Warm Baths for Your Nerves.

A bath at a temperature of 92 to 96 degrees will quiet the nerves in a magical way, even in cases in which drugs of all sorts utterly fail. Such a bath is called a neutral bath, because no action is produced by it and no disturbance results from overheating. Its temperature is just enough lower than the body's to carry off the surplus heat without producing a cooling effect.

Her Problem.

First Modern Parent—"Aren't your two children something of a problem?" Second Modern Parent—"Yes, indeed. They go away to school for thirty-eight weeks, to camp for ten, and that leaves four whole weeks when I don't know where to send them."—Life.

What Interested Him.

Four-year-old Paul had heard the next door neighbor say that she was having a dress made on a train on it. As soon as the neighbor had gone Paul asked his mother breathlessly: "Oh, mamma, will the train have an engine, too?"

Smoke Evil Parable.

Preventive investigation of smoke inspection by the United States government has led to the conclusion that it is mechanically possible, and that the best results have been attained by the use of mechanical stop.

Mean Man.

Customer—"I want to get a collar for my wife's poodle." Dealer—"Some thing plain, sir?" Customer—"No, something showy and expensive looking. I want someone to steal the little beast."—Boston Transcript.

Golf and Bowling.

"Then you think that on a sport bowling is superior to golf?" "Yes, there are times in golf when you are liable to find yourself about half a mile from a hole."—Puck.

Indefinite.

Mrs. Gray—"The window in my hall has broken glass in it." Mrs. Green—"Too bad! Can't you find anything that'll take the stain out?"—Boston Transcript.

Woodcraft.

You can make fire by rubbing two pieces of dry wood together, but it is not believed that this method will ever supersede the plan of rubbing a match against a piece of sandpaper.

Take Time to Ungrat.

That primitive and animal instinct and impulses still survive and surprise us by their odd, unexpected, unaccounted-for, perhaps, when we recall the many thousands of years in which these factors have imperceptibly changed, for the comparatively brief period since man entered upon his modern and civilized stage of life.

For Cramp in the Leg.

When the cramp comes on take a good long string—a long garter will do—wind it round the leg over the place that is affected, and then pull it to each end and give it a sharp pull—this will cause a little pain, but the cramp will disappear, and the sufferer can return to bed assured it will not come on again that night.

Criticism of Nature.

"The trouble with this world, Kansas," said Wayne Walker, "is just here. In Central America bananas grow wild, but there isn't no market for 'em. Up here, where there's a market for 'em, they don't grow wild. What nacher wants to do to help the world is to have things grow wild where there's a market for them things."

Got His Errands Mixed?

Dolly—"My friend Brad divorced her husband on account of his failure to understand the needs of family life." Dolly—"How can he be divorced, then? That's all."—Dallas News.

Fate of the Great.

A gospel is one who labors without thanks, talks without reward, lives without love, dies without tears and without pity, save that some day it was a pity he died no sooner.—Bishop Hall.

Proper Sympathy.

Don't fancy that you will lower yourself by sympathy with the lower creatures; you cannot sympathize rightly with the higher unless you do with those—Ruskin.

Difference Made by Years.

When a girl is six, she weeps if the soles of her best doll shoes up and let out evidence. "When she is twenty six, if her best doll shoes up and spend some else's equally pleased.

Business Only.

As a general thing when a man at the table tells the maples around his neck he did not come there to indulge in table talk.—Oklahoma News.

Helpless Father.

Children are taught to be kind to dumb brutes, and something should be said about impinging on father.—Atchison Globe.

Keep Secret.

What the world needs is the resurrection, the lock of chain, the hanging countenance, and the kindly word. Keep secret.—George L. Perin.

Experiences.

Experience teaches a lot of things we never cared to learn.—Judge.
