CHAPTER XIII—Continued.

—16—

Now she turned on him with scorn.

"Oh, that's why you're in such a hurry, is it?" I thought so.

Those three women you have proposed to—they'll do for your purposes;

they'll help you, aid you in their ways, but to you they're nothing.

What would you do with them and they'll come to you?" There's Mrs.

Roynton, now! Merry her! You've got ten minutes left—go ahead, I don't care!" She paused on the threshold.

"I'll send her in. She'll make you a good wife—she's had a lot more experience than I have! Good luck!"

He left alone, walking down the long hall. He stopped at the door.

"Hall, Hall, Hall!" He was crossed with his thoughts that he did not see Mrs. Roynton, who had en-

suddenly, he all but ran into her.

Rena, beaming, elusive, held out both her hands, caught him, and laid her dark head against his shoulder.

"Hall, Hall, Hall!"

Hall was unaccustomed to free

himself. "What's the matter now?" he asked.

She looked fondly up into his face.

"Oh, Hall, didn't you understand what I said from the phone?"

A sudden thought came to him, a desperate expedient. Any stuck to beat a dog with, any excuse, however ridiculous, would do. "I'll just rip off this clinging sticken-female. He must get rid of her. So, quick as a flash, he took up her words and plunged into a histrionic fit.

"Oh, I understand it right enough.

That's the trouble. I understand it too well. You've got me out of my miser, and it will be out of your miser, too, when I find out what it is.

While there was time for me to escape worse!"

"But I don't mean that, Hall, really."

"No, you mean you only wanted to lure me—get me to propose, and then throw me out!" I know! All's a woman's way of getting what she wants—any man will do. I suppose, so far as her vanity is satisfied, she can have it scalp to wear at her belt!

Isn't it shameful what a woman will do, just for the moment's cruel pleasure?

You have no sympathy, no ten-derances, no heart, nothing but a sense of the animal's coming.

What you are! That's why I found it out in time. I say! Oh, I did think I loved you, Rena, I admit; but I was a fool to believe in you. Now, it's all over!"

He stood before her, shaking his finger savagely. "It's all over, and I'm glad it is!" he said of Rena, Mrs.

Roynton, and it will be all over with you, too, if I just let you what I exclaimed. "I just like to tell you what I

I think of you, but you're my guest in my house, and unfortunately I'm a gentleman, and so I can't do it."

But there's one thing I can say, and that's "Good evening!" Mrs. Roynton, and you have no excuse me, for I have my eyes to a thousand women.

Almost, whined with this extra-giant fury, he turned to make his exit

as speedily as possible, but she was too quick for him. Seizing his arm, she looked him straight in the face, her eyes filled with tears.

"Why, Hall, Bonistell!" she exclaimed. "You're crazy! Why, I'm going to see you again!"

He dropped like a log upon a chair in amazement. She had demolished his whole towering pose at a word.

For a moment he was unable to speak.

Then she looked at him very archly.

"Hall," she said, "don't you think I'm pretty, but unusual tonight? Or do I look like it because I'm so awfully happy?"

The question pricked him into life.

He looked at her coldly, and in seperation made another attempt to good her into anger.

"By Jove, I didn't think a woman could be so ugly, who do any thing to get what she wants, then won't she? She'll pay me back and suffer any indignity! Good Lord, haven't you any pride, Rena, for heaven's sake? Haven't you any sense of shame? Tell me, is there anything you wouldn't do for money, Rena Roynton?"

"By Jove, Hall," she replied, with blissful innocence, "I don't know what in the world you're talking about;

but I tell you one thing that I wouldn't do—wouldn't give you up for all the money in the world!"

"Well, can you best it?" he gasped,

addressing a Spanish chair.

"Ah, Hall," she continued, "when I once consent, I go fast! Really, I'd like to be married to you this very night, if you only had a marriage license."

"A what?" he cried, thunderstruck.

"A marriage license, you know. Of course that's always necessary before—"

"By jiminy! Christmas!" he shouted, starting off in his chair

with a roar, everything was forgotten

now, was lost. A! a marriage license! Not once had it occurred to him—the whole sublimo comedy had been played out in vain! The four million—Jesse Hasingburg had won,

after all!

behind my back and broken your group
last word?"

Rena took it up. "You know

you said you refuse him?"

"Well," said Mrs. Roynton, "I can't help it, but I am engaged to Hall Boni-stell. You two girls must have made some big mistake, in some way; I don't understand it at all. But you can see for yourself!—there's the ring!"

Carolyn looked at her coldly. "Well,

Rena, you have lied to me! Well,

what can you expect from a woman

anyway?"

"Yes," Carolyn added, "the minute you're back is turned, and they'll stab you in the back, every time!"

"Why, I had an idea of breaking my word, Carolyn, you know I would ever do such a thing as that. It would pride myself on loyalty. But, I see when it's a case of a man's happiness at stake, his whole life—why,

I simply had to sacrifice myself. I'm too generous, I suppose, but I simply had to do it!"

Carolyn looked at her coldly. "Well,

Rena, you have lied to me! Well,

what can you expect from a woman

anyway?"

Carolyn had a harsh laugh. "Well, then we are all three of us engaged to the same man!" She burst into tears.

"I'll send him to the devil!"

Carolyn burst into tears again.

WESTERN CANADA CONTINUES TO WIN

The 1915 Yield of Grain Keeps Western Canada to the Front.

The great publicity that has been given to the grain yields of the provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta has been a decided surprise of Western Canada east of the British Columbia boundary, has kept Canada to the front with a pre-eminence that is merited.

The grain crop of the three provinces has now been harvested, and sufficient of it has been threshed so that it is no longer a matter of estimation that the entire yield of wheat will be upwards of 275,000,000 bushels, and the average yield will be 25 bushels per acre. In proportion to the aggregate this is perhaps the largest yield ever known on the continent.

At the time when the grade No. 1 north and south wheat, with present prices, the condition of the farmer is to be advised. Many individual yields are reported, and verified, and they are almost beyond belief, but they go to show that under the favorable system of agriculture that the products of Western Canada would have far exceeded the 275,000,000 bushels production of wheat in 1915 had the system been universal.

It was not in one or two districts that big yields have been made known. The reports come from all parts of the 100,000 square miles of territory in which the growing of wheat is carried on.

Mr. Elmer Seller, a farmer south of Strasburg, Sask., has harvested 5,465 bushels to the acre, with an all-round crop of 33 bushels to the acre.

J. N. Wagner, near the same place, also lays claim to over 40 bushels of wheat per acre.

A Norwegian farmer, named B. A. Robinson, near Rock Island, Davenport, 22 acres of wheat which he sowed a field of 47 bushels to the acre.

Well, then, near Glencoe, Alberta, D. H. Engle of Humboldt, Iowa owns a quarter section of land. This land was rented so that Mr. Engle should receive one-half of the crop. His yield was 40 bushels to the acre, and his net rental for the crop, and there was only 30 acres in crop.

Scenes of reaps give yields fully as large as those given above. A large field of spring wheat near Leavenworth, Kan., yielded 59 bushels to the acre, and 31 bushels to the acre. This farm had 200 acres under crop to Marquis wheat and it is expected the average from the whole will exceed 50 bushels.

In all portions of Saskatchewan and Manitoba, as well, remarkable yields are reported. Many large fields show an average of from 40 to 55 bushels per acre.

When the story of this year's threshing is completed some extraordinary yields will be heard of. One farmer west of Unity, Saskatchewan, threshed 10,000 bushels of No. 1 northern from 200 acres and such instances will not be few.

Considerable of the wheat grown in Western Canada is finding its way to the markets of the United States, notwithstanding the duty of ten cents per bushel. This means a loss to the Canadian farmer, but Canadian wheat necessary for the blending of the high-class flour that is demanded by some millers. Already nearly a hundred thousand bushels of the 1915 crop has found its way to the Minnesotas. But, St. Louis is not the only market for Canadian wheat, although there are extraordinary fields. A farmer living south of Wadena, Sask., harvested 300 bushels of oats from ten acres. S. A. Tolpeth of Dayhoff before referred to had oats which yielded 110 bushels to the acre, while those of J. N. Wagner were 94 bushels to the acre.

As pointed out by a Toronto reporter, Canada's great good fortune and splendid service as the Granary of the Empire are revealed in the record harvest from her rich fields of wheat and other grain. The foundation of our prosperity may be exhausted and lumber may disappear through improvident management, agriculture is a perpetual source of wealth, whereas from year to year by the stimulus of individual industry and personal initiative, we have increased our grain output from 13,365,000 acres an average yield of 35 bushels to the acre. The substantial nature of this growth in production is shown by the fact that the harvest returns are 12 per cent greater than the average for the past five years.

The same satisfactory and highly important success has been attained in other grain crops. The aggregate yield of oats is 481,035,500 bushels from the 13,365,000 acres under crop. Of this yield 305,000,000 bushels are for the home market. Previous years have also contributed 304,200,000 bushels of grain. The barley harvest is 50,368,000 bushels from 1,659,850 acres, an average yield of 32 bushels per acre.

"The impression one gets in going through Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba," said a traveler from the East, "is that all the horses and teams and all the threshing machines engaged, make no impression on the crops and that it will take six months to thresh the grain out; but two weeks ago the Canadian Pacific railroad were having a daily shipment of grain products, and a week ago they had got up to 2,100 cars a day. And besides this there is the Canadian Northern railway and the Grand Trunk Pacific, so an enormous quantity must be being shipped out of the provinces. The farmers are building large granaries on their farms, while there is a great improvement in the storage facilities provided by the government."

It is therefore no wonder that the greatest interest was shown by those who attended the Soil Production Exposition held at Denver a short time ago, when it was demonstrated that it was not only in quantity that Western Canada still occupied the primary position. It was then that Western Canada again proved its supremacy, in which the Canadian Pacific railroad would be witness and this really the case, not only did it win the big prize, but it carried off the sweepstakes. What, however, to those who were representing Canada at this exposition, was of greater value probably, was winning first and second prize for alfalfa, and for the best and most improved by old settlers growers to be the best they had ever seen. First, second and third cuttings were shown.

"Under the circumstances," the statement declares, "a special session of the legislature is absolutely imperative at an early date for the following reasons:

"First, the tax rate levy of the state must be fixed in the month of December."

"Second, a large number of officers and employees of the state have been without working compensation for some time past and have been living from hand to mouth with the assistance of money lenders, who have, I fear, taken advantage of their necessities."

"The members of the legislature had better therefore hold themselves in readiness for an early session, not later than Monday, the 22d inst."

The statement continues:

"In disposing of the Fergus case the supreme court declares that in drawing a strict line between an officer and a soldier, the court has decided the pay of an officer can be provided for in any other appropriation bill than one for the pay of members and officers of the general assembly and officers of the state government, if a difficult task is set for the legislature to determine who are and who are not officers."

This difficult task, however, is to be left to the legislature, and in the future, with the possibility of the same mistakes being made that have been made by legislatures in the past.

"The Fergus decision will have the effect of compelling the greatest care and caution in the enactment of appropriations bills."

"While the expenses of the state are to be borne by the supreme court, are not advantages to the taxpayers of the state of Illinois."

"The total amount of appropriations voted by the governor aggregate $270,045. Of this aggregate, $17,143,038 were voted voting single appropriations or single items of an appropriation bill, and $252,897 were voted in the supreme court's decision. The total elevator capacity is about 176,000,000 bushels, or nearly one-half of the entire wheat production of the Dominion in 1916. Of this large storage facilities the country elevators number 2,890, with a capacity of 35,000,000 bushels—advertisements.

DUNNE DISCUSSES SPECIAL SESSION

Calls Attention to Necessity of Extra Meeting.

STATEMENT TO THE PUBLIC

Chief Executive Notifies the Solons That the Session Will Come on Before Monday, November 22.

Springfield.—In a statement issued to the public, calling attention to the need of a special session of the legislature to meet the situation created by the supreme court's decision in the Fergus and "Sergel" cases, Governor Dunne declares "the only apparent saving accomplished by the Fergus litigation, as against the enormous losses resulting to the state from the suits, are the comparative financial savings appropriated for litigation committees, aggregating only $43,472.11."

"Under the circumstances," the statement declares, "a special session of the legislature is absolutely imperative at an early date for the following reasons:

"First, the tax rate levy of the state must be fixed in the month of December."

With the naming of the two, the personnel of the commission is made complete.

Besides the two latest named members, the commission as it stands includes: John A. Logan of Elgin, a Sullivan Democrat, and Joseph H. Haas, of Chicago, a Deacon Republican. Also, Edward J. Kehoe, Chicago, and Samuel Drew, Joliet, Illinois, Stephen and Kelly are the Democratic members; the other two are Republicans.

The governor and members of the commission will appear at Chicago the coming week to fight for the waterway. In this connection, the hearing before Colonel Bixby, resident engineer of the war department, on the question of issuing the federal permit for the waterway construction.

Opposition to the granting of the permit will be strenuously waged, it is understood by the governor's forces.

Representative Hubbard of Greene county will be on hand personally to fight the permit issuance is not definitely stated, though the governor's friends understand that they are prepared to offer any resistance to the success of the scheme.

In the same connection, Colonel Bixby will consider nothing but the engineering features of the project, and upon this basis he will make his recommendations to Washington.

DUNNE TALKS ON WATERWAY CASE.

Gov. Edward F. Dunne of Illinois, in a speech before the Greater Davenport committee at Davenport, Ia., exposed the cause of waterways. He reviewed somewhat the Illinois fight for the internal waterway, declaring that marks the opening of a new commercial era. The governor said in part:

"I recognize the fact that the people of Davenport, Rock Island and Moline are firmly of the opinion that waterway transportation should be developed in the interests of the whole country. Through their efforts that the Illinois canal connecting the Mississippi river with the Illinois river was constructed by the federal government, and that you are alive to the necessity of having that canal connect not only with the Illinois river, but with Lake Michigan by the construction of a waterway which will enable you to transact commercial business not only down the Mississippi river, but with the great lakes.

"I have been reliably informed that you have in the city of Davenport a publicly owned waterway terminal which is the only one of its kind in the country. It is the result of the efforts of the citizens of Davenport, Rock Island and Moline, who have, I believe, been instrumental in the development of the waterway. I have been told that the waterway has been a great success, and that it has been a great benefit to the people of the city.

"The Fergus decision will have the effect of compelling the greatest care and caution in the enactment of appropriations bills."

"While waterway transportation has been largely restricted in the past to the transportation of the railroad interests and those interests are not the only ones that will benefit by the development of the waterway. I believe that the waterway will benefit the independent dealers and the independent business men of the city, and that it will be a great benefit to the people of the city.
