TAKEN IN THE PRIME OF LIFE BY INFLUENZA

Barrington Home Made Sad by Death of Ralph W. Church, Prominent Young Man

Barrington's seventh victim to succumb to pneumonia, preceded by influenza, is recorded this day in the death of a young man, Ralph W. Church, who resided at his late home on the south side of the street Saturday morning, after an illness of three days. He had been ill for three days previous. Physicians, parents, relatives and friends did everything possible to restore his health, but in vain.

His demise is especially sad in more ways than one. He had two brothers, a son and a daughter, two sons and a past, and had been made the happy father of a bouncing baby boy within the last few weeks. Now his wife, his parents, brother, sister and friends, to the life from which he had been snatched.

Ralph W. Church was born at Barrington Center, Nov. 11, 1894, being the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Church, two highly respected residents of the town.

His boyhood was spent on the farm, when later the family moved to the village, where he grew up in the shadow of the Barrington public schools and an excellent and worthy secondary school.

He was united in marriage to Bertha, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John H. St. John, of the hotel's house in Charlotte, Mich., and soon after they took up housekeeping in Barrington. This family has been a source of much joy for the past three weeks, and while the mother was convalescing, Mr. Church busied himself with the care of his wife, which caused the couple to leave the country, claiming the lives of some of our best young men.

In the course of his life in Barrington he had followed many trades and introduced the first permanent automobile in the village. He had the business of his life, however, as a partner with the Leonard garage, of just prior to his death he had resigned from the garage and had undertaken the business of going to the Rockford, Wis., to take employment.

He was a splendid young man, is every way a credit to his race, a truly worthy, and had the respect and confidence of everyone who knew him. The sympathy of all is extended to the widow of the deceased, his son, his wife, his mother and mother, brother and sister.

He was a member of the local veterans' organization, and was one of the first to join the Illinois Volunteer Training Corps. By his faithful attendance and knowledge of the service, he was a frequent guest of squad No. 1, and was very ready to do his part in any branch of the corps. He will be missed from the corps, as his usefulness and regular attendance.

Surviving his wife, son and aged parents, is a brother, Alfred, at home, and a sister, Mrs. S. E. Smith, of Charlotte, N.C., who with a large circle of other relatives and friends had gathered at the home of the widow, and his sudden passing away is a great sorrow to all.

The funeral was private, as is accorded to the deceased, and was held at the home of the widow on Monday afternoon in charge of Rev. John E. Belknap, of the M.E. church, Indianapolis, who was present.

Longfellow said, "Lives do not grow old as years do; we grow old because we give up. We let life pass us, we do not wait." "Don't you see that, and don't the angels, they are offering after me?" said a man five minutes past his 72 years. "I am not afraid to die; my heart is set free from this torment of sin and Godlessness. I have been a sinner, but I have repented. For this blessed meeting she was adoring herself at a friend's house, and when she passed away, as was her custom, with her hand, her father said: "Good-bye, my son, I am glad you are home again. We'll improve the prison; I think, I think." "Go forth to meet the shadowy, faint-wraithed spirit of death, and when you meet him, tell him that this is what our departed friend hard to accomplish. Thus his sacrifice will be recorded by His who does all things best."

SCHOOLS TO OPEN MONDAY

The Board of Education has decided that schools will open Monday morning, as the result of a thorough physical inspection. The buildings each day will be disinfected. People should not be at the buildings before 8:30 a.m. and should not enter the door immediately. They will be inspected by a public nurse. No child should be sent to school with a cold. J. S. Hause, who is with G. W. Kenney and wife, for 3, block 3, At Home subdivision, Wauconda, W. D. 2202.

G. O. Jochum, and wife to Amherst, block 1, At Home subdivision, 4 and 5, At Home, W. D. 2202.

E. A. Smith, superintendent.

MRS. PLAGUE LAID TO REST FRIDAY

The funeral service for Mrs. Florence E. Plague, who was held at her late home on Cook street Friday morning at ten o'clock. A large and varied group present to pay their last tribute to the deceased friend parted, but forgot not the comfort of the church, the old cemetery, and the thought that she was a Christian and had died in the service of God. The thought that from childhood she taught to pray by her mother's side and the family altar, and the love of the Lord, was left to rest in Evergreen cemetery.

Mrs. Plague will be missed in every family circle, and the love of the Lord, who was also a member of the same church, will be missed in the hearts of the members of the Country Life association.

The following obituary was read at the service:

Gertrude Clarke Haudekovich was born at Waukegan, Ill., Oct. 14, 1895, where she was a member of the First United Methodist Church. For a number of years she was a teacher in the public schools, in the Sunday School, for a number of years, and the last three years, as a teacher in the Country Life association.

The Kaiser as I Knew Him For Fourteen Years

"And then," the Kaiser went on, "when this great offensive was within a week of being launched we blockaded the port of Kiel, and the harbor was held, covered with snow, where they couldn't bring up their reserves or get coal, and we starved them."

"We took practically everything they possessed, and then we sent our entire army without calling upon our own supplies at all. Never before had any nation been so completely cut off of ammunition. I must certainly go down to see it."

"Then, when their morale reached, and, as they were taking their army to the south, we captured 60,000 of them up to the Rhine."

"Everyone we went to see said that they had never seen such a sight. Once in their cities refugees with dingy faces, their ruined roads, impeding the roads of supply. We had taken possession of their most powerful regiments, and their retreat was a complete rout. They had nothing."

"Just think of that: retreating army down upon the already impoverished people of France."

"Why, they'll starve to death!"

"Then, the Kaiser was enraged, blindfold and his arms as instinctive, he and I feared that he would do something that would give us the opportunity by a gigantic offensive on the western front."

"Indeed, in an instant, an occasion arose, and I applied to my office for treatment, and again referred to the British ambassador. 'If you can't get me out of Germany, get me out of France,' I told him.

we, as dentists, had to represent to the representatives of the American intelligence dehagen, and I related it in great detail to them. I remained in Copen-
