

Just Between You and Me

By Leslie B. Prichard

Another case of looking the bairn after the horse is seen in Waukegan. The parents were the victim of the action of a night watchman at the school houses is being talked of since a scholar was shot to death in the school yard without a record having been made.

This is a reminder that a local citizen who lives adjacent to the local school some time ago called attention to the possibility of having our schoolwatchmen make a trip around the school house and vicinity occasionally during his tour of duty.

This citizen's complaint was that the school grounds were being made the meeting place for a gang of hoodlums who utilized it as a sort of lovers' lane and were doing damage about the date when the school opened after school had rung for vacation.

He argued that the place for girls of tender age to entertain their boy friend, if they must do it at all, should be in the front parlor where mother's watchful eye could be upon them.

It is probable that if the night watchman took a stroll in the vicinity he would find it deserved. The problem is that the night watchman at night is not such as would induce even the most loves-devoid of couples to go to the school grounds on the cold cement steps, but the hint is something which could be passed along to the school officials if it can be represented in some specific manner.

This issue of the Review contains accounts of several fires of interest to local people, among them, however, ever one which came dangerously close.

The winter was there, however. This is the season of the rear for fires in dwelling houses and stores, and all seasons the world in which to burn.

One of the few was caused by the explosion of a smokeless tire, another by burning at night unattended to keep a storage room warm. Another was the result of a short circuit in the wiring, and still another from a cause almost as common—cigarettes.

It is safe to say that none of these fires could have been the proper pernicious been taken.

Electric wiring in buildings should be examined at reasonable intervals by electricians, and repaired if necessary.

No householder or owner of a building should fail to examine his heating apparatus, including the chimney, flue, and pipes, to prevent fire which are necessary with the advent of cold weather to be built.

Insurance may cover a loss, but it is unlikely that it will pay you a reasonable amount of compensation.

It is not too late, even though it is,

make an inspection for safety's sake.

Treasury department officials, the Red Cross, and the American Legion are urging all to make a contribution to the last drive to induce World War veterans to retrain their war record.

For many of the time has been already expired and the insurance no longer obtainable, but there are many others who have not been disabled, and these men can be helped if these men can relocate their insurance.

The period of grace is nearly over.

Any responsible insurance man will tell the exercise who has no doubt, that the government insurance is the best and cheapest protection he can secure.

The time is not now.

More often than not, the old adage, "An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure," will red the advertisements of some of the local dealers who will sell you a gun, a rifle, or a shotgun, for rods, and will make modern application of the warning contained therein.

TRACK WORKERS INJURED WHEN CARS DERAILED

Four workmen on the El, E. & L. railroad were injured yesterday morning a few miles this side of Waukegan. The cars which derailed and two box cars crashed into a bank car on a siding, in which the men were working. The box cars were declared responsible for the accident by railroad investigators, who hurried to the scene of the mishap.

A freshman in the Waukegan Township high school will be held in the county jail for a week, and taken some distance from the city, where he was left to walk home. He was a track operator, who when they tried it a third time, and one of his unopposed, he was unable to stop the train. He stopped a bullet with his hand.

PLenty of CARS NOW, SOON MAY BE SUPPLIES

The back of the car shortage has been broken, Clyde B. Atchison of the National Association of Automobile Manufacturers declared before the annual convention of the National Association of State Automobile Manufacturers.

As a result "of the efforts of railroad engineers and employees, with the cooperation of the shipping lines under the policy laid down by the War Department," he said, "we are now facing the possibility of a surplus of equipment."

The general public would never know "how close the rail and water transportation system of the country is to a complete cessation of functioning in the immediate heart of the country in the rear," he said, "but during April and while continuing to increase."

"The present financial situation," he asserted, "comes with the apparent downward trend of construction costs, makes it seem possible that there will be a surplus of available construction power, and accordingly there may be a letting down in the intensive use of the railroads and water transportation machines up to 10 per cent, he said."

The railroads, he said, "will be able to meet the demand for supplies from the rear, and the general public will know that about a five million dollar investment."

He would tell his men to do what they could to help him, and the public would figure you would also get some money from the surplus stock you have, he said.

Mr. Atchison, president of the Illinois association, said: "The men who are only by combining their efforts at the rear, will be able to meet the demand for supplies from the rear, and the general public will know that about a five million dollar investment."

U. S. WARSHIPS TO SAVE RUSSIANS

All Available Yank Vessels Are Rushed to the Crimea.

REDS CAPTURE SEBASTOPOL

Belishevski Seize Control of the Crimea as Wrangel's Army Is Annihilated and Commanded Fleet on Fresh Watch.

Washington, Nov. 12.—Available American vessels in the Black Sea are to be used to despatch refugees to leave the Crimea in advance of the Bolsheviks. The first news of the use of the ships given by the State and Navy departments since the recent Cossack massacre at Sebastopol, commander of American warships in southern Russia.

It was not known exactly where the refugees will be taken. At the State department it was said that the Red Fleet had been ordered to Sebastopol, but that they might not be taken to Constantinople, one of the Great Powers, or to Japan.

Wrangel Fights Free Forces

Constantinople, Nov. 12.—Sebastopol fell to the Russian Soviet forces on Sunday, November 11, after the execution of 1,000 persons, according to reports, and the capture of 1,000,000 rubles worth of supplies by the rebels. It was said that General Wrangel, it is stated, was captured by the rebels.

General Wrangel, commander of the staff, and M. M. Blaum, French high commissioner at Sebastopol, were taken into custody by the French warship Wandale yesterday. The whole of the Crimean fleet is to be given up as lost by the French.

These ships, which are the flag ship office vessels, were loaded to capacity with supplies and the remnants of General Wrangel's army. The refugees, however, were left behind, and there, it was said, probably never made.

The fate of these refugees is causing great anxiety, as the American fleet has not yet been able to leave the Crimea. The majority of the refugees have been deposited upon the American ships, but their fate remains.

Little Optimism Shows

Officer of the staff, who is an expert at optimistic, but the outcome of the war seems to be clear real belief that Wrangel's army will be wiped out, as did General Denikin's, in southern Russia.

It is the opinion of the Crimean delegates that the Black Sea territory was not lost to the Bolsheviks, but to the Turks.

The report that the Black Sea fleet, a few members of General Wrangel's staff and a number of refugees, had virtually wiped out, its members either being killed or taken prisoner.

Proceedings of General Wrangel's fleet have been suspended to do with the collection of supplies according to information received from the British.

The Bolsheviks, it is declared, spread reports that General Wrangel was a reactionary and that he had been sent to the means the return of the czarism and should be overthrown and dispersed pamphlets and posters to reinforce these statements.

On the other hand, it is reported that the extremely cooperative party of Russians considered General Wrangel too liberal and advanced to his views, and informants report that there was a movement plotted his downfall.
