COME HERE TO COMPLETE

A motion picture party stormed the beautiful residence of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Ficks at Lake Zurich last Saturday afternoon. The party was a picture of mirth, glee, and fun, and the picture was "Young Out."

The picture was played under the auspices of the Lake Producers' Association, and had been completed. Peter Bowman, the manager, was the director, and the stars, Thomas Hidesbrand of Oak Park and Charles H. Johnson of Chicago.

The members of the Lake industry were given a tour of the farm, and when the picture of the production of milk, the cost of producing a quart of milk, some of the various uses of milk, the raising of the dairy farm, the woman and her duties on the farm, and illustrations showing conclusively that there is no substitute for milk or milk products.

The picture also shows the formation of the cooperative which occurs in such organizations, how such a co-operative is organized, the handling and the value of organization to the producer.

When the party learned of the purpose of the visit by the motion picture party who entered healthily into the discussion, they invited the expatriate Director Bowman with every detail that would make the picture home-like and of beauty.

LEGIONNAIRES BURY

LOCAL WAR HERO

What was probably the first military funeral held in Lake Zurich was held yesterday for the remains of the body of Leo L. Sandman, who lost his life in the Argonaut during the First World War. The remains were brought to the cemetery in a plot in Lake Zurich cemetery.

The Barrington post of the American Legion had charge of the funeral and the members of the Legion escorted the body from the Evangelical church to the local funeral home and stood by while the firing squad sent a final salute over the open grave and the silvery notes of a bugler sounded the "Last Post."

The funeral service was conducted by Rev. Charles Helle of Des Plaines and a mixed quartet rendered appropriate vocal selections.

SAYS ILLINOIS BELL

TELEPHONE COMPANY

Answering Commerce Commission's Citation to Show Cause Why Rates Should be Reduced

Operating expenses of the Illinois Bell Telephone Company have increased since the public utility commission authorized an increase in rates in 1919, and a complaint filed by the telephone company against the commission, the Illinois Commerce Commission, to show cause why the rates should not be increased.

In another part of the answer the company says that the use of procedures adopted by the commission in issuing this change and the increase in rates is justified.

The telephone company has filed a reply to the commission's complaint, and the commission is to hear on a charge of embezzlement.

An examination of books of account shows a shortage of approximately $100,000.

(Chicago)—Improving its coating 52,000 miles of telephone wire, the Illinois Bell Telephone Company has nearing completion.

Trunks have been more than doubled in size, and the company has also stated that it will co-operate with the telephone company in proceeding brought under the Illinois law.

The law says that the present rates, effective January 1, 1921, are just and reasonable.

Investigation conducted by the commission shows that the company never had any surplus and still stands with a balance of $100,000 in its bank account.

The company has filed with the commission monthly reports of revenue and expenses since Jan. 1, 1921, when the present rates became effective.
