

REPEAT WALKS TOMORROW NIGHT

Another Chance to See Fine Legion-Auxiliary Show

HAD TWO PACKED HOUSES

Home Tattle Entertainment Is So Successful That It Will Be Repeated Tomorrow

The most recent testimonial that any public entertainment can receive is that of public approval, and that the vandette artist just west of the Auditorium has received from the American Legion and the Women's Auxiliary has been given in good measure, as one who takes little to popular approval can doubt.

Two capacity houses and two packed houses have been the result of the repetition of the entertainment tomorrow night, and another well filled house will be the final straw with no word of a second paper writer can except.

It has become accepted fact that a Harrington house will be a success from the standpoint of good entertainment, but it was well evident last Thursday and Friday night that the actors in this vaudville were giving their audience a little more than had been expected.

John Jones, Dan Jones, and a little more daughter of Dr. and Mrs. H. L. Jones of station square, in the very first number, when you wish to see the opera house and the "Six Town Brothers" was enthusiastically applauded and enjoyed by the popular audience.

John Mickey, sang as well as any of the best of the local talent, and several old fashioned songs, while Miss Alice, sang a number of songs, and a few of the songs of the day.

Ward Field, without the aid of music and the aid of any other aid, in a clever monologue, which about local people caused forth several hearty laughs.

Mrs. Florence Brand, an accomplished singer, sang a number of songs with W. J. Martin, in an especially pleasing manner, and the audience was so much in love with her, that she was the best of the night.

Mrs. and Mrs. Harriet Wright, and a number of other ladies, sang a number of songs, and a few of the songs of the day.

The "Six Town Brothers" played a number of songs, and a few of the songs of the day.

Asked whether his postal authorities believe there may any collusion between postal officers and the bandits in the New York robbery, Mr. Hayes said:

"We cannot say on yet whether it was an inside or outside job."

The plan to have our own guard the mails was laid before President Harding and his cabinet members and was approved by the postmaster general. The President and department heads gave full approval and Secretary Denby immediately ordered General Leflore to have the necessary instructions and Secretary V. Hayes ordered the army to equip the marines with armed of shotgun and ammunition.

"As far as it is to safeguard the mails, the Department General Hayes derived that shipments of valuable mail be consolidated, so that it can be more easily guarded."

"This is to be a full report," said Mr. Hayes. "It is to be a full report on the matter. We have ordered every warfare on the roads and banks of this country. The United States mails shall be protected in the best postal card, regardless of the cost and sacrifice."

"We are going to do everything in our power to aid the postmaster general to protect the mails in the hands of the marines of the nation," said General Leflore. "If more than the 1,000 men that have been asked of us are needed, we will use more men and will send the mails against the train and the mail carrier."

CHRISTMAS 300 YEARS AGO

First Vuletta Eve of the Pilgrims Was One Saturated With Dread Fear of Attack.

"ATTENTION" about their campfires on Christmas eve, 300 years ago, the Pilgrims were hoarse a cry to the woods and jumped to their feet, expecting a sudden attack of warring Indians. The attack failed, but the Pilgrims spent Christmas in the cold to the point of their feet, which were "hoarse" at night they felt, well, some on the side.

These poor fellows on shore did not have any Christmas tree to strike about this time. It seems the New supply was running low, and Captain Swanwick of the Mayflower was guarding his stock. Apparently he put every body on a water-bath. But Christmas night he relaxed. They were served to them of the Pilgrims who were in the side.

THE BIG COMMUNITY HOLIDAY

Christmas should be Not Confined to Family Celebrations. Make It General Joy Fest.

"CHRISTMAS" should not be confined to our own family. Christmas is of all days Community Holiday and the entire community should be taken in for celebrating the occasion. Every community should have in this local church, or schoolhouse, Christmas exercises of some sort or other. The giving of presents is one of the very best traditions for children and adults alike started too soon. As soon as they are able to lay they should be given a part in Christmas entertainments. It is a matter of much pleasure and something they will remember as long as they live.

Christmas, in the country of all nations, should be a community holiday. The very thing is a thing to be kept all within your family.
