Philip Hesters should have unusually good shooting luck this fall, according to the report of Mr. William J. Stratton, director of the Illinois Department of Natural Resources, in the annual fall inspection of the state.

The annual hunt is limited to two causes: first is the importation and introduction of game species from birds. This appeal was made by radio to the public to help bring in the state last month when an unexpected number of birds were found in the state so that each and other species could be introduced.

The other reason for the large number of birds is the importation and widespread release by farmers, sportsmen, and even the children to help bring in the state.

THE TWO BIG BOYS AND THE TWO POOR BOYS

William R. Jenier, Jr., son of the United States newspaper magnate, is in Paris. Leon Bener, son of the president of the Havas Agency, the outstanding press association of Europe, is in Chicago.

Here are two young men, who, through inheritances have great possibilities ahead of them. Each will have millions to spend and their influence in moulding public opinion will be tremendous in the new generation. It is a happy circumstance that the ones who live in France, and the other who lives in America crossed each other in the Atlantic. Unknown to themselves, the one will learn to see Europe in an understanding way; the other to know America better.

They may meet some day a score of years hence and the one may have learned the side of the other. That may save thousands of lives and millions of money. On the other hand, if young Monsieur Jenier spends all his time in the Chicago American office while he is in Chicago, and if young Mr. Havas trips off with old trifles and comes with an empty pocket while he is in Paris, neither will grow in wisdom or grace.

Here is a picture such might make. It reads like a fairy tale. It might be called the story of the Two Poor Boys.

Once upon a time there was a little boy who loved and never mistreated dumb animals. He was very much poorer than any little Barrington boy who will read this. When he became a man, he was led to think of a plan to treat cattle humanely while in transportation to market. Finally he manufactured the present type of cattle car and is a multi-millionaire. His name used to be Longy Mater but it was C. Mather now. Next month Mr. Mater will begin the erection of two tall buildings on Michigan Boulevard. They will be 561 feet high, the tallest in Chicago. All that comes from being kind to cattle, but being kind to horses, dogs, cats, and sheep, too, will bring great wealth.

A former slave preached at Del Plaines Methodist Church near here last summer. He is known in Maryland ten years before the civil war. He had no advantages, was without books and was uneducated. Later he went seven miles to school daily. He walked. There were no roads in those days. His name used to be Charlie Tindley. It is ergained as one of the most eloquent preachers in the United States and is pastor of one of the most prosperous churches in Philadelphia.

Should young Mr. Hest and young M. T. L. Jenier be lacking in intelligence, we would point out to them that the moral in this story is that if two poor boys can do so much for man and beast, there is no limit to what two rich boys could do.

FOREIGN PRAISE AND CENSURE. It happens so infrequently these days that a kind word for the United States comes from across the water that an interview with Cardinal O'Donnell, upon his return to Ireland, after a visit in the United States, is worth an added emphasis.

Says the Cardinal: "I am very pleased to find that the United States is a wonderful country for those who visit it for the first time, and even with people who have been there many times. I am sure all nations pride itself in the great western products of the United States."

The condition of Europe is, of course, deplorable. It only makes matters worse.

however, for the French to express bitterness. A German indemnity would have been much greater than France's indebtedness to the United States. That they forgot.

Mrs. Amiee Semple McPherson, lady "seer" and "healer" of Los Angeles, who claims to have been kidnapped and carried to Mexico, is thought by some to have been involved in a love affair, but Arthur Brisbane thinks otherwise. He declared that her specifications for a future husband are that he must be "six feet tall, a trombone player, singer and a good and holy man, also a preacher." Like Brisbane, we doubt if there is any such animal.

Considering the fact that the manufacturer is aided by the protective tariff, the railroads by the Interstate Commerce Commission, the banks by the Federal Reserve Act, labor by the Immigration and Naturalization Act, it does not look as if the farm will get a share in the session of Congress. The plan was "economically unsound," the leaders announced. So is most legislation.

A frivolous newspaper headline writer captions an accident story: "Bound for Church; Land in Hospital." In order that this may not deter any well intentioned person from getting a car, we may as well be truth to quote an accident insurance company to the effect that it doesn't happen once in one million times.

A sporting copy of the Congressional copy desk of a Chicago newspaper says Congress made a low batting average because it passed only 895 bills out of 13,909 introduced.

On the contrary its a high average. The few laws passed the higher Congress stands with the public.

Amity between the United States and Japan is being further improved, according to a story which sounds "fairy but isn't." The United States bureau of fisheries some time ago presented the Japanese government three million whitefish eggs, and the Japanese will send in return 100 choice goldfish and 100 beautifully ornamental carp.

Electric motors in the United States do the work of 170,000,000 men, it is estimated. The laborers who made the great power plant machinery on the ground that it would make jobs scarce. Demand for everything stimulated by advertising, solved the problem.

A Methodist congregation at Yucaipa, California, after a long marathon, read the good book through in 90 hours and 47 minutes, failing to break the record of the Methodist's record of 55 hours and 47 minutes last year. Such stunts get publicity, but we doubt their value in any other respect.

A Texas minister killed a man Saturday and on Sunday occupied his pulpit as usual. When he died on Sunday occupied his pulpit but it did not get into the preacher's sermon printed throughout the country and read and probably the last time in his career.

The criminal element in Canton, Ohio, is the local newspaper editor. One of the poorest of sports is killing the editor. A new one immediately appears on the scene.
