Francis A. Barter, 53, of 303 Garfield street, Harvard, Ill., engineer on a C. & N. W. switch train, dropped dead from heart failure at the local depot of that railroad Monday afternoon.

worked lays over at Harrington. The work had been finished for the day shortly before 2 o'clock, the locomotive put up, and Barter, with other members of the train crew, walked down the platform towards the depot to wash and be ready to catch the 2:19 passenger train for his home at Harvard. Suddenly he slumped forward, his face became purple, and when a physician hastily summoned by his companions arrived the engineer was pronounced dead.

The body was taken to the Danielson & Willmeling mortuary, where the local physician signed a death

The remains were taken to Harvard Monday night, and funeral services were held there on December 10.

24th, with burial at Mt. Auburn cemetery, Harvard.
Barter leaves a widow and three children.
Three sisters and two brothers also survive. Two sisters, Mrs. A. D. Gaines and Mrs. Clara Bullamore live at Kenosha, Wis., the other, Mrs.

Mr. Barter was born at Pleasant Prairie, Wis., Aug. 10, 1877. His boyhood and school years were passed in the community where he was born. He entered the service of the Chicago & Northwestern rail road company over 30 years ago, and had been a resident of Harvard for 25 years. He was recently assigned to the Harvard-Barrington wa freight run.

It's time to go home

Now is the time when you think of going home for a visit—just before winter sets in with a vengeance. If you can't take the time for a personal visit, do the next best thing—telephone. A telephone call will carry your voice home with the speed of light. You will enjoy talking to the folks... telling them what has happened since you last saw them. The happy moments spent in telephoning home will repay many times over the small cost of the call. Long Distance is Quick... Cheap... Satisfying.

MOST people feel that the present business situation is the result of some unexplainable economic situation over which they have no control. They realize that business is not so good for the merchants of their community, that many men are unemployed and yet they know that in time, if history repeats itself, prosperity will come back.

Meanwhile, they become conservative in their expenditures and put off buying, and building and fixing up until times are better.

They do not realize that these very actions are delaying the return of better times.

If they only knew that on their very doorstep lies the responsibility and means for helping. That if they would make normal expenditures or even spend to the limit of their ability—to stock up at attractive prices—to have the dozens of odd jobs done now, business would pick up.

That in this very community, every dollar spent would help the business situation right here. That it would give employment to worthy men and restore prosperity here if no place else.

NEW YEAR'S DAY

Festivals in celebration of the beginning of a new year have been traced back as far as 3000 B. C. to ancient Babylon. They may have been held long before that. Throughout the ages various peoples have observed various days of New Year's Day.

In view of the many calendars which have been employed to mark the passage of time, much confusion has resulted. Different peoples have counted the years from some real or imaginary event, and the length of the year itself has varied according to the calendar used.

The Mohammedan year, for example, is governed by the moon, instead of the sun, and consists of 12 lunar months, or only 354 days. The Hebrew calendar also consists of 12 lunar months, but an extra month is inserted once in 19 years, making 354 days in those extra months, as they are called.

The ancient Egyptian year had 12 months of 30 days each, but first supplementary days were added at the end of each month, making 365 days. Similar peculiarities marked the year of various other peoples. At one time or another every day in the year has been considered New Year's Day according to some calendar or other.

Our present calendar is a modification of that established by Julius Caesar in the year 46 B. C. Augustus made some rearrangement of the number of days in the various months, so that August, named for him, might have as many days as July, named for Julius, for originally August had only 30 days. The calendar we now use was established by Pope Gregory in 1582.

So, when we observe New Year's Day we may understand that it does not mean anything in particular, except that it is the first day of a year arbitrarily established as the most convenient means of reckoning the flight of time.

TEN FARMER PLANKS

In a recent booklet the American Farm Bureau Federation gives among other valuable information a platform for American agriculture. The ten planks of this platform, in condensed form, are as follows:

1. The support of sound and economical production practices.
2. Placing in the hands of producers the control of the sale of farm products.
3. Equality for farmers in the standard of living enjoyed.
4. Adjustments to give the farmer parity with others in purchasing power.
5. Development of schools, roads, rural electrification, churches, health agencies and all other factors conducive to an intelligent community movement.
6. Farmer representation on all important public boards and commissions.
7. A national agricultural policy based on a free and independent farm people, as contrasted with foreign dependent systems.
8. The creation of new and enlarged markets for American farm products.
9. Maintenance of that economic system which protects private ownership of property and provides a just reward for individual effort; public protection through regulation; it opposes communism.
10. Providing an organization to supply facilities for group action in building a permanent, prosperous, free, independent American agriculture.

This appears to be a sound platform, worthy of the support of everyone who is engaged in the country's most important of all industries—agriculture. It might well be supported by all other industries, also.

A GO-GETTER AT 86

When Mr. Herbert Hoover christened the new Dollar Line ship, the President himself, a few days ago, Captain Robert Dollar, the 86-year-old owner of the line, was not present. He was in China looking for new business for his great fleet of ships.

The President Hoover, by the way, is the largest merchant ship ever built in the United States before 1933, being, with accommodations for 1,200 passengers. A second ship of the same size is under construction.

Few careers have been more picturesque or more successful than that of Captain Dollar. Born in Scotland of poor parents, his schooling ended at the age of 11, and upon returning to Canada his active career began as a laborer in a lumber camp when he was 13.

Shortly afterward he came to the United States and was naturalized as an American citizen in 1888. He engaged in the lumber business and foreign trade and has long been known as one of the largest operators of ocean vessels in the world, all of which are under the American flag.

He was 57 when he bought his first vessel, and 74 is not a licensed shipmaster. His title of "Captain," therefore, is merely nominal.

But, even if he is not a practical navigator of ships, he probably knows more about operating them at a profit than any other living man, and has not shied down miserably as a business go-getter, in spite of his 86 years.

NEW LABOR SECRETARY

A few days ago the third man to preside over the Department of Labor since its divorce from the Department of Commerce in 1913 was inducted into office. He is William N. Clegg, born in Virginia, 48 years of age.

The only other men to hold the Labor portfolio are William B. Wilson and James J. Davis, both of Pennsylvania. Wilson served under President Wilson, while Davis has served under three Presidents—Harding, Coolidge and Hoover.

Secretary Clegg rose from the ranks of railroad trainmen, his education having been received in the public schools and in a business college. Since 1908 he has been prominent in the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, and for 14 years has been the legislative representative of that organization in Washington. Since 1920 he has been editor and manager of the Railway Trainman.

He has been a close friend of President Hoover since the year when he served with the future President in the United States army. He is the second youngest man to have been secretary of War—having been 25 years

Uncle Sam Goes to Sea Again

American Flag Now Flies in Every Port in the World

British Our Only Rival

By CALEB JOHNSON

Uncle Sam has taken to the sea again.

We have been hearing a great deal about the American Merchant Marine, but for years, the extent to which shipping flying our nation's flag has remained the commanding position on the high seas that it used to occupy before the Age of Steam.

Before the Civil War there were so few American ships sailing to foreign ports that the flag was almost unknown in many of the most important ports of the world.

For nearly fifty years that condition had been changing, and from year to year, the number of American ships engaged in foreign commerce, and only Great Britain exceeds us in the annual volume of ship construction. And that condition is getting better, from our point of view, from year to year.

In the old days of wooden sailing ships the United States led the world. In the first 75 years of our national existence, Yankee ships built and crewed then were sent anywhere else.

Our shipbuilders and designers strove to improve their models, until in the 1850's the Yankee Clippers, the towering wooden sailing craft which penetrated to the remotest reaches of the globe, were the fastest and most profitable merchantmen afloat.

They were at once the admiration and the despair of the British, our only rival on the Seven Seas.

Then came the iron ships, and almost at once.

The iron ships and the steam power were introduced into the shipbuilding picture, and the United States became established in a shipbuilding States.

As long as ships were built of wood and propelled by sails, we had the advantage over everybody else; we had the timber, and the workmen, and the expert knowledge of ship construction; we also had a population living almost entirely along the seacoast, with a natural taste for the sea, and from this coastal population we could man our ships with the best navigators and sailors to be found anywhere.

Why Worry?

"Why do you think you would like to be rich?" asked the wealthy man of little Patrick.

"Well," said the tiny visitor as he peered around him at the pretentious furnishings of her aunt's mansion. "Cause I think it's too expensive."

A SUGGESTION FOR UNEMPLOYED

Election signs should come down and right now.

Who's going to pay for it? It might be a good idea to ask the loser of the election to do so as a penalty for losing—the idea might be good, but the practice would undoubtedly fall short.

The winner might be approached, but too often election winners take the stand "I'm in now so why should I be annoyed?" So that is not so good, although there is a possibility that there is always another way.

There is a possibility that there is always another way. There is a possibility that there is always another way. There is a possibility that there is always another way.

Saying "Merry Christmas, Neighbor"

The first lighted community Christmas tree, in New York 18 years ago, attracted great throngs in Madison Square park. Since that time thousands of other communities have adopted the outdoor Christmas lighting idea, until today the "tree of light" is found in all parts of the world.

A score of Barrington houses are proclaiming the yuletide with lighted outdoor displays this year. The community tree in the triangle downtown is more attractive than ever. Nearly three hundred boys and girls gathered there Christmas Eve to greet Santa and receive gift boxes of candy.

Crippled Bronchos Lose 2nd Conference Game to Wauconda

The crippled Bronchos lost their second conference game to the undefeated Wauconda cagers last Friday by a score of 23 to 15. Although the game was much closer than the score indicated, Wauconda was out in the lead practically all of the game. Coach Brown's boys were sinking their shots from all over the floor with either one or two hands, while the Bronchos had a lot of difficulty locating the elusive hoop. Thorpe was not in suit on account of a pulled tendon, while it will be some time before Captain Grabenbert gets into a game.

The Ponies also took a beating by a score that sounds like a football game with one touchdown, 4 to 0. They couldn't penetrate the Wauconda defense which last week held the Libertyville seconds to no field goals.

The box score:

Barrington, 13—	B. F. P.
Williams	1 0 2
Wagoner	0 2 0
Beckett	1 0 2
Rees	1 0 2
W. Grabenbert	1 3 1
Totals	4 5 7

Wauconda, 23—	B. F. P.
Rundskild	1 1 0
Hirvinku	1 1 0
Reasley	1 1 1
Moffitt	0 2 3
Grantham	2 1 1
Dewalt	1 1 0
Totals	9 5 5

Three non-conference games have been scheduled during the holidays. On December 27 Barrington meets Elia at Barrington and on January 3 the two teams meet again at Lake Zurich. Barrington also goes to Crystal Lake on December 30 for a return game.

DEATHS

Louis Colley
Louis S. Colley, 32, of 128 N. Hager avenue, died early Saturday morning at the Barrington General hospital, of pneumonia. He had been ill for over a week, but was not taken to the hospital until late Friday afternoon. Funeral services were held Tuesday at the Danielson & Williamson chapel, the Rev. M. S. Freeman, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church, officiating, and burial was at Wauconda. Mr. Colley was born February 27, 1898, at Rochester, Vt. He lived for many years in Cuba township, and had been a resident of Barrington for the last five years. He is survived by one son, Walker Colley.

A brother, Benjamin Colley, lives at 1246 Polom street, San Francisco, Calif., and he has a sister living at Madison Wis.

Henry Werbach
Funeral services were held at the Wain-Ross-Alison funeral church, Elgin, Friday for Henry Edward Werbach of Cary, who died at the Woodstock hospital following a brief illness.

Mr. Werbach had lived in Cary for six years, and was engaged in highway construction work. He was born in Plato Center, May 15, 1880. Burial was at Plato Center.

Surviving him are three children, Henry and Arthur Werbach of Cary, and May Werbach of Elgin; three brothers, Samuel and George Werbach of Plato Center, and Frank Werbach of Elgin; two sisters, Mrs. Herman Wiese of Plato Center, and Mrs. Leslie Anderson of Moline, Ill.

NATIONAL FARM GROUP EXPOSES FALSE ATTACKS

While the Federal Farm Board has requested a federal investigation of "an insidious campaign" against its activities, the Farmers' National Grain Corporation, cooperative agency sponsored by the board, has taken the defensive on its own behalf, said a recent dispatch from Chicago to the Christian Science Monitor.

In making an expose of an attack against the Farmers' National, W. H. Stant, director of publicity, said that though the organization would not attempt to reply to every criticism of its activities, every flagrant effort to discredit it would be run down.

In the case just brought to the attention of the public, grain elevators throughout the middle western section were being flooded with literature containing "vicious attacks on the Federal Farm Board and the Farmers' National Grain Corporation, according to the latter's headquarters here. Much of the literature, it was asserted, bore the name of the Illinois Farmers' Grain Dealers' Association, and the signature of a reputed vice-president of the association.

This letter stated that the use of the name of the Illinois Elevator Association is an "evade," the statement said. The name of the Illinois elevator group is Farmers' Grain Dealers' Association of Illinois, and its president is E. H. Bonnell, of Ottawa, Ill., in a letter to the Farmers' National, makes clear the actual relationship between the authors of these attacks and the Farmers' Grain Dealers' Association.

"This letter stated that the association 'has never authorized nor endorsed any letter or statement critiquing the members or the policies of the Federal Farm Board and we earnestly desire that its sins may be realized.'"

When Farmer Wheatley saw an ad in the paper: "For $5 we will tell you how to cure your horse of colic," he sent in the money. A few days later he received the information: "Teach him to spit."
