

Service Company Suit May Delay Tax Collections

Valuation Case Before Supreme Court Is Problem to County Clerk

It is probably has developed that the county tax collections will not be made this year because of the valuation of the Public Service Company plant at Waukegan, Ill., which is the subject of an article in the Chicago News Sun of Wednesday.

The possible delay is caused by the fact that the Supreme Court is now hearing the case of the Public Service Company against the State of Illinois, which is the subject of an article in the Chicago News Sun of Wednesday.

The county clerk, J. J. ... has expressed his opinion on the matter, according to the News-Sun. One is that the Public Service Company valuation would effect the total county valuation and therefore influence the tax rate.

Se'n-Wooret-Ankh Tomb Finally Yields Secrets

According to an expedition to upper Egypt from the New York Metropolitan Museum of Natural History, the tomb of Se'n-Wooret-Ankh, chief of the priests of Ptah of Memphis, who died 2600 years before Christ, had been discovered.

The tomb, which was found in the desert near Lisht, was the chief of the Arimas of the Two Kingdoms, Dean of the College of Scribes and Royal Sculptor and builder, according to the designations in 236 columns of hieroglyphics decorating the walls of his vault.

The priests, to safeguard his grave from vandals, devised a system of grooving the enormous stone slabs of his tomb so that they would slide into place easily but would resist all upward pressure. He hid his exact place of burial, but all these secrets were according to the leader of the museum's expedition, were in vain.

In the entrance of the tomb they found a fragment statue, life-sized, of Se'n-Wooret-Ankh himself. It had been a seated figure wearing a broad wig and the short kilt, a custom for cult statues of his period. Only the part from the waist up was found. The two hands had been knocked off and the figure was gone, but "the modeling of the torso is admirable." In the doorway they found the gorgon's head, which was a really superb example of animal sculpture.

Redwood Trees Largest, Bacteria Smallest Bits

The largest living things are the giant redwood trees. The smallest are bacteria. Both are plants. Bacteria are plants consisting of only a single cell; while the redwood trees consist of countless millions of cells.

Bacteria are often called germs, microbes. Perhaps the word "germs" is used because these bits are so similar to single-celled organisms. They are so small that one can see over seven without the use of a microscope. They are by far less than one twenty-fifth of an inch in diameter.

scope, saw them while peering through his crude lenses. Later, in 1857, discovered that bacteria caused the souring of milk and fermentation. Then, in 1882, Robert Koch, a German, discovered the bacteria causing tuberculosis.

The Hop Plant

The hop plant, Humulus Lupulus, belongs to the family Moraceae, with long twining stems and abundant three to five-lobed leaves. The female flowers, which grow in strobiles, or catkins, are used to impart a bitter flavor to the malt liquors, and to preserve them from fermentation, their active properties depending upon the presence of an aromatic and mildly narcotic resin, called lupulin, secreted by the scales and fruit. The hop plant is a diocious perennial, indigenous to temperate Europe, Asia and North America. It is trained upon poles, and requires to be cultivated with great care; a full crop is not produced until the fourth or fifth year after planting. The hops when ripe are picked by hand, dried in a kiln, and packed into bags or packets. They can be kept several years by tight packing.

The Oujia Board

Study of the phenomena of the Oujia board has led to the conclusion that its movement is due to unconscious muscular action. The first step toward a scientific explanation was made by Professor Faraday, who invented an instrument which would register the unconscious muscular action of any person placing his hands upon it. This showed that all persons exerted more or less a powerful push or pull action, but quite unconsciously. Professor Jastrow proved further that this action is not only present and operative in all normal individuals, but corresponds generally with the expectations of the sitter who has his hands upon the table.

Shark Speedy Swimmer

The amazing speed of which a shark is capable, estimated by natives of various countries at 35 to 40 miles an hour for short intervals, makes it a formidable antagonist among underwater denizens. Perhaps, in view of these facts, it is not strange that sharks were among the very first fishes to be found on this earth.

"To throw confetti," said Bill Ho, the sage of Chinatown, "is a waste of paper. Yet there are times when there is vastly more paper wasted by being written upon."

Four manuscripts of the Fourteenth century, unearthed from the tombs of a Cistercian monastery in Italy, have been presented to the San Francisco university.

Goat Farm Pays Its Way

A woman of Polish birth, who reached this country as an immigrant after the war, appears to have found the solution of her economic problem by developing, on a farm a few miles outside of Boston, one of the largest goat ranches in New York state. She started only six years ago with a herd of twenty. She turned them to a profit principally by using their milk for making Swiss cheese as it is made in Switzerland.

Psychology

A perfect example of "a state of mind" is found on Rossed Island in the South Pacific. When a man is arrested for a crime, even when it is murder, the police merely attach a handcuff to one of his wrists and set him free until his trial. Weaving a handcuff, they have been taught to believe, prevents a man from running away. — Collier's Weekly.

Young Grizzly Bear Ligh

The young of a grizzly bear at birth may weigh less than a pound, although the mother tips the scales at 500 to 1,000 times as much.

In Uid Haunts of Pirates

Of immeasurable wealth are the many prizes—caskets of precious jewels, chests of gold ingots, bags of pieces of eight, doubloons, ducats and pearls—awaiting the treasure-seekers lured by grimy, tattered charts and records of known authentic origin. In the tropical waters of the coast of Haiti—old haunts of pirates, thieves, wreckers and villains unborn—still lie many rich treasure ships. But there are proportionate dangers to be faced in these waters, dangers such as sudden hurricanes, yellow fever, barracuda, giant squid and the dreaded tiger sharks.
