TELEPHONE, BARRINGTON NO. 1
SALT IN THE SUGAR
Extensive construction work was scheduled to get underway at the high school building this week with labor furnished by the federal emergency relief and materials paid for by school district 4.

The improvements were needed and are part of a long time program for making better school facilities in the district. Installation of new boilers to replace old units which for several years have been on the verge of drawing condemnation from fire underwriters and school building inspectors should meet with approval of parents of school children and in fact of all humane citizens in the district.

Dictatorship
That America is rapidly going the way of ancient Rome in its establishment of a dictatorship is contended by Senator Thomas D. Schall, of Minnesota. He says: "Under the constitution of the ancient republic of Rome there was a provision that in time of exigency and danger a dictator could be invested with absolute authority for a period of six months. A subsequent congress has given our two years. During those six months the dictator was free of challenge to do for the commonwealth whatever in his judgment the emergency required."

Our Children

This nonsense out of your head. Study your chemistry. I want you to get high marks in chemistry. You can be a chemical engineer. On, yes, you can. All you have to do is to put your mind on it. If I can learn chemistry, you can. There's a new field waiting for you. Now, forget this business. Make something out of yourself. All right. You'll do just what I tell you. That's the end of it. Be man. I'll be man, too. Maybe he is a bee man. How about bees? What do you know about bees? They're 12 foot tall. They stop in your stride toward the laboratory some sunny morning and look into the orchard, you might possibly discover a world, a beautiful world where miracles happen.

HOPEFUL PREDICTION
There is a general feeling in Washington that there will be much house cleaning by the administration when congress gets away. Much of it will be done while Mr. Roosevelt is on his ocean trip to the Pacific coast and there are rumors that it will carry out a number of theorists whose ideas have not stood up under the pressure of experience.

CLASS POLITICS
Organized labor's quest for a national labor board to act as its master sergeant has been one of the most interesting pieces of political maneuvering recently. Few members of congress except Senator Wagner in the senate and union card holders in the house were enthusiastic for the bill as introduced. When it received an airing in committee it was less acceptable and was buried in committee. Immediately strikes began over the country, concurrently with a demand that the board was needed to stop further disputes. It has been high class politics.

WHAT'S GOING ON WASHINGTON

Strikes, terror and bloodshed, industrial warfare of the most intense kind, have created a psychology that will serve to push the revised Wagner bill to passage. The new bill is different from the original draft which caused so much criticism. Instead of being one-sided it now is broader and more comprehensive. With some changes here and there, it deserves to pass. This is because, when all is said and done, the new bill is really a corollary of the blunder made in the famous section 7 of the national industrial recovery act the language of which was so vague and misleading that it may be said to be largely responsible for the labor troubles we are witnessing today from coast to coast. It is not expected that this legislation will prevent strikes, it is beyond the authority of the federal government to force men to work against their will. On the other hand it cannot exert coercion on employers. The most that can be done is to provide a tribunal with authority to take binding action when called on to act by both parties to a labor controversy.

Rebuilding and reorganizing the NRA is a definite part of the administration's program. He would prefer to do the job after congress goes home. For one thing Senator Hiram of Idaho, is insistent on restoring the national trust laws. Senator Nye is active, too, in championing the cause of small business men. But congress will not do anything about new legislation on the trust question at this time. There's ample time for reorganization by placing the principal administrative duties of the NRA in the department of commerce, and the principal judicial functions in the federal trade commission. This would mean retaining the code system for certain specific purposes and giving the power of review to the federal trade commission. Something of this kind may be looked for. The details will not be known for another month.

A billion and a quarter dollars "lost" by bank depositors may be handed back to them soon. The house of representatives has passed the Steagall bill authorizing the federal deposit insurance corporation to buy up at normal business values the assets in banks closed as a result of last year's banking holiday. The money which the FDIC thus hands over to the defunct banks is to be passed on to the bank's depositors. Thousands of depositors will benefit from the bill if it is passed by the senate and signed by the president. Closed national banks alone total 1400 and hold more than a billion dollars in frozen deposits.

Life for one million traveling salesmen just one commission after another. Only the commissions aren't very frequent, what with salaries and drawing accounts, the retail merchant's depression began. Left out in the cold by all codes except those for the solid braided cord industry, the retail merchant industry, the coat dock industry, and maybe one or two others, salesmen finally got a chance to give the NRA a sales talk on May 23rd and 24th. Mostly the employers' side of the story dwelt in the claim that good salesmen are satisfied with only 25 percent and that it is impossible to control the actions of outside men. As counsel for a salesmen's association, Samuel Utterback of New York, said the plight of the retail merchant in "today's description". He said they are the only class of workers who have been "ignored and cast aside" by the NRA. Before 1929, he said, it was the custom to pay both salary and commission, but today commission payments are the rule. About 19 per cent get salaries, whereas 50 per cent got them years ago.

Senator Norris (rep.), of Nebraska, whose proposed constitutional amendments to do away with presidential electors and have popular election of president and vice president was rejected twice by close votes in the senate last week, expects to renew the fight next session. The resolution would have names of presidential candidates, including independents put on ballots in national elections in the state. He said candidates for governor appear on state tickets. The resolution, which would have to be ratified by the states, barely did the needed two-thirds vote in both senate votes.

Nutatch Never Talks
The noise that he knows as the nutatch noise is not a song at all. It is a nasal "yank, yank," which the nutatch uses as a vehicle of audible soliloquy, for he never talks to anyone. His song is different, and not so frequently heard. It is almost a whistle, and has music in it. It is not as good as the "peep" of the tufted titmouse.

Anti-Spitting Campaign Started by Tuberculosis Society; Issues Posters

An appeal for the elimination of promiscuous spitting, a major cause of the spread of tuberculosis, was issued today by the educational committee of the Illinois Tuberculosis association. To emphasize the danger to the public, the committee has produced a poster to be distributed in offices, factories and public places by the 85 local tuberculosis associations affiliated with the state organization.

The poster depicts a small child being led by its mother's hand, with the legend, "For my sake, don't spit! Spitting spreads disease." In discussing the reason for the emphasis placed on this phase of public health, W. P. Shahan, executive secretary of the Illinois Tuberculosis association, said that "We are taking a lead from the educational manuals of 25 years ago. It was the tuberculosis movement that set frowned upon careless spitting. The practice has been reduced considerably, but today, after careful study of statistics on infection, we find that much good may result from the revival of the old anti-spitting campaign."

Mentality and Weight
The idea held by the public and by many psychologists that the short, fat man is likely to differ in personality and mentality from tall, thin person failed to differ in mental tests were given to 143 students of various physical builds. Science Service says.

Figures prepared by the National Tuberculosis association show that tubercular tests among school children have revealed that sometimes as high as 40 per cent of those infected with tuberculosis have had no knowledge of contact with tubercular persons. This would indicate a chance infection spread dissemination of disease resulting from careless spitting.
