

Building Permits in Suburban Region Are 9 Per Cent Over October

A gain in new suburban building in October of 215 per cent over last year and of 9 per cent over September 1935 again indicates that revival of building in the Chicago region is firmly grounded and continued improvement may be depended upon. Barrington's permit fell short of the figure reached in 1934.

Figures to be compared are $1,835,982 for October, 1935; $1,538,574 for October, 1934; and $1,557,477 for September, 1935.

The great improvement began in March when for the first time since December 1931, with one exception, the amount of building permits issued in the 53 towns reporting to this survey exceeded $1,000,000.

Old Castle of Trevano Recalls Reign of Caesar

In the valley of Conarato above Lugano in southern Switzerland, stands the castle of Trevano. Baron von Derwies, a Russian millionaire and private secretary of the czar, built the chateau Trevano between the 80s and 70s of the last century at an outlay of some 12,000,000 francs, says a writer in the Philadelphia Inquirer. He was a patron of the fine arts and as such he maintained in the castle a high class orchestra and a small theatrical company, so that Trevano soon became a rendezvous of the musical world. However, the owner died in 1881 and the castle remained unoccupied for almost 20 years.

Its second owner was Louis Lombard, a Frenchman by birth and an eminent violinist in the United States brought him great wealth.

Von Derwies had planned to develop Trevano into a Bayreuth of the southland. Some of the foremost musicians of his days played at Trevano and an orchestra under his direction gave over 100 symphony concerts which were attended by the elite of Europe's musical and social leaders.

Some of the noted figures within the chateau are a staircase with a balustrade of 300 columns of finely cut Bohemian glass; elaborately carved doors and mantel pieces; masterpieces of the locksmith's art; walls of flawless cararra marble; mosaic floors; frescoes, etc.
