REVIEW

Advertising Gains Merited by Results

The confidence that advertisers place in the Barrington Review is reflected by a steady increase in display lineage over a four-year period. Using 1933 as a base, the percentage gain has been:

Year	Advertising Gain
1933	...
1934	22 3/4 per cent
1935	30 3/4 per cent
1936	56 1/4 per cent

Two Record Months

During January, 1937, receipts from Review subscriptions, new and renewals, exceeded those of any month since June, 1936, (when an extensive campaign was concluded). February, 1937, subscription receipts exceeded those of January, a second straight record month.

This confidence comes from Results—Results in the form of sales to the growing family of Review readers, customers of the advertisers.
