

Plagge, Henderson Attend Meeting of Young Republicans

Hear Senator Bridges Issue Party Challenge at Convention

Dr. A. G. Oleske, republican committeeman of Barrington township, sent Wallace Henderson and John Plagge as delegates to the state conference of the Young Republican organization of Illinois, held at Springfield, Dec. 4 and 5.

The Young Republicans placed a wreath on the tomb of Abraham Lincoln, one of the founders of the republican party, Sunday morning.

Senator H. Styles Bridges of New Hampshire, main speaker at the convention, challenged the republican party to "solve the problem" of insuring the survival of democracy in the United States.

All persons who have made a study of world affairs realize that democracies are being subjected to a stress test and know that whether democracy can survive in this country or not depends upon the policy we adopt for the purpose of correcting the distortion of our present-day society.

tion act that will give both sides to the controversy a fair hearing. "The need of young and vigorous leadership is paramount if we are to succeed," he said in conclusion.

Plan Demonstration of New Park Ridge Vapor Light System

F. Lynden Smith, director of the department of public works and buildings, will represent Governor Henry Horner as chief speaker at the dedication of the state's first installation of sodium vapor highway lighting Thursday, December 16, in Park Ridge.

Also invited to speak at the dinner at Maine township high school, which will precede the dedication of the 15 highway lighting units now being installed at the dangerous S-curves on Duane highway at the Potter road intersection, are Leonard Applequist, state commander of the American Legion, and Sidney J. Williams, director, public safety division of the National Safety Council.

Toastmaster will be Mayor Arthur L. Jones of Park Ridge, who will be introduced by Stewart J. Owen, president of the Park Ridge safety council, the organization which, in cooperation with the Park Ridge Business associates, is sponsoring the dedication ceremony.

Immediately following the program, which will be concluded between 9:30 and 10 p. m., a motor cavalcade escorted by local and county police will drive to the section of lighted highway where Mr. Smith will deliver the dedicatory address over a public address system.

Arrangements are being forward to have the demonstration broadcast over a Chicago station. It is planned to have a commentator drive over the section of highway first without benefit of the lighting system, describing the visibility of such obstacles as a stalled truck and a dark parked car.

much greater when costs are low. The way cows are fed has a great deal to do with production. The feed cost of producing milk has been reduced on Illinois farms as much as 40 cents per 100 pounds and the net returns have been increased $50 a month or more by making needed adjustments in the ration and method of feeding.

Hold Last Rites for F. Schwemm, Once Road Commissioner

Funeral services were held for Fred Schwemm, 423 N. Cook street, who died Thursday at his late residence, at the funeral chapel, 145 W. Main street, Sunday afternoon with Rev. Herman Koening officiating. Burial was in Evergreen cemetery.

He is survived by his widow, the former Miss Emma Redmeier, and six children, Charles, Fred, Mrs. William Pakke, Mrs. Mary Buehler, Frank and Clarence, all of this community; three brothers, August and John of Barrington and William of Crystal Lake, and two sisters, Mrs. William Schmetz of Barrington and Mrs. William Lyons of Chicago.

Many Interested in Party for Veterans at Hines Hospital

County Clerk Michael J. Flynn, chairman of the Mid-West baseball league's 7th annual Christmas party for the sick and disabled veterans at the Edward Hines, Jr. Memorial hospital which will be held on Tuesday evening, December 21, 1937, has attracted widespread attention.

Stars of the stage, radio and the leading night clubs in the Chicago area will perform without cost to entertain these men who are confined to their beds in this famous institution for soldiers. Chairman Flynn's appeal for contributions of cigarettes, cigars, canteens, wearing apparel or any article which will add to the happiness of these men who have done so much for America has stimulated the enthusiasm of the committee meetings.

All contributions can be sent to John R. O'Connor, recreation bureau, Hines, Illinois.

Columbus' Party Did Not Have Very Large Ships

Columbus, on his voyage to America, did not equip with large ships. Of the three vessels provided for the voyage, the two furnished by the crown of Palos were little caravels. The third, hired with funds contributed by the queen and by Columbus, was called a ship, although it was about the size of a coast schooner. The crew of the Nina, the smaller of the caravels, consisted of eighteen men, headed by Christopher Columbus.

The Santa Maria, Columbus' flagship, was manned by the crew of fifty-two, including some citizens of Palos, honest sailors, pirates, adventurers, convicts from neighboring Mediterranean ports, from inland towns and from Spanish prisons. Included were Arthur Lave, an Englishman, and William Harris, from Ireland. There also were a number of Jews, banished by an edict of the Spanish crown.

Columbus had no scientific appliances of any sort. It was not possible to tell time accurately, for there were no clocks—only the half-hour sand-glass and, on fair days, the sun. He could estimate within a few degrees his distance north from equator by measuring the height of the north star, but he could only guess how far west he had traveled. The calculation of the day's sailing depended much upon the strength of the wind and the ocean current. The sailors measured their speed by floating objects.

Judge Extols Dog From Bench in Damage Suit

In rendering an opinion in a damage suit in which a man lost his life trying to rescue a drowning dog, a Georgia supreme justice devoted a half hour to extolling the virtues of dogs and to three sentences to his decision, states a writer in the Chicago Tribune. Part of the justice's remarks were as follows: "From the dawn of primal history the dog has loomed large in the art and literature of the world. In metal and in stone his noble life has been perpetuated, but the dog's chief monument is in the heart of his friend, man. As a house pet, a watchdog, a herder of sheep and cattle, in the field of sport, and as the motive power of transportation, especially in the ice fields of the far north, the dog has ever been a faithful companion and helper of man. In the trackless forests of the new world he was on the firing line of civilization in the task of subduing all enemies, whether savage man or wild beast.

"From the story of the noblest of nature's plants and trees we have the dogwood, dog daisy, dog laurel, dog rose, dog violet, and dog lark.

"Baron Cuvier considered the dog 'the most complete, the most singular and the most useful conquest man has gained in the animal world.'

"Alexander H. Stephens wrote for his anxious people: 'Here rest the remains of what in life was a satire on the human race and an honor to his own—a faithful dog.'

U. S. Flag at Fort McHenry The flag which flies at Fort McHenry, where "The Star-Spangled Banner" was written by Francis Scott Key, is raised and lowered according to regular governmental regulations; that is, it is raised at sunrise and lowered at sunset, says the superintendent of the Fort McHenry National Park. The flag at Fort McHenry floats from a pole which is located as near the site of the flagpole of 1814 as can be determined.

Nehemiah Grew's Seed Men It was Nehemiah Grew, English naturalist, who first announced to the world that no flower seed could develop without the union of the pollen and ovule. But the theory was so novel that scientists of his time were reluctant to believe it, and it was not until 1735, more than 100 years later, that Linnæus reaffirmed the theory.
