High School Dramatic Club Cast Ready to Produce Annual Play

"The Call of the Banishes," the annual production of the Dramatic club of the Barrington high school, will be presented this evening, Thursday, and Friday night in the school auditorium. Curtain time is 8 o'clock. Miss Georgia M. White of the high school faculty is directing the production.

The plot of the play revolves around a queer old house inhabited by Peter Adair, an eccentric old man. A straight-laced spinster, a hypnotist and his servant and a Scandinavian maid furnish the humor and thrills. Mysterious tension is maintained from time to time by sudden deaths that keep occurring.

Trick scenery and stage effects help produce an eerie atmosphere during the play's presentation.

$263 Collected in Scout Drive; Many Lists Not Finished

With 24 scout drive captains reporting out of 50, a total of $263 has been turned over to A. L. Wiedenbeck, finance officer of the executive council of the northern district, by H. H. Walbaum, local chairman of the financial drive.

The number of team captains reporting final returns so far is far below expectations of the committee. Mr. Walbaum stated. A number of the workers have made some progress in completing their lists but have been slow to turn in a final report.

It had been planned that the drive be completed in a short time, but that can not happen now, it was learned.

The money raised by the financial drive will be used to defray expenses of the scout cabin and of general troop activities.

Emerson Confesses Poetry
Everything about a famous person is interesting, particularly when he writes about himself. At a supreme moment of his life, writing to his betrothed on the eve of their marriage, Ralph Waldo Emerson says of himself: "I am born a poet-of-a low class, without doubt, yet a poet... My singing, to be sure, is very husky, and is for the most part in prose. Still I am a poet in the sense of a percipient and lover of the harmonies that are in the soul and in matter. A sunset, a forest, a snowstorm, a certain river view are more to me than many friends, and do ordinarily divide my day with my books."

The Hem Veto
An item veto is a power given to the governors of many states to veto single items in bills passed by the legislatures. The President of the United States does not have this power. He must sign the bill or veto it in its entirety.

Railroad Map in Carpet
An unusual map of the railways of Central Europe was manufactured at Prague in 1863 in the form of a beautiful piece of carpeting measuring 14 by 20 feet. This was presented to the museum in Vienna.
