The committee composed of W. J. Snyder, George Voss, Earl Kane, Louise LaMagdeleine, Joe Wisner, D. E. Minto and H. C. The depth enough for the swimming contest to be conducted.

Good Local Market for Farm Machinery, Livestock and Feed

An active local market exists for farm equipment, stock and feed, according to reports brought to The Review office. Several persons are in the market for Guernsey cows. There is a market for alfalfa hay and for quarters of beef, among other products and by-products of the farm.

E. K. Magee of Hartwood Farms sold two good Guernseys through a three line want ad in The Review. He could have sold more if he had them, he said, as he received additional inquiries.

Arthur Swanson sold 3 1/2 acres of alfalfa hay through a three line ad, and Ward Flick sold several quarters of beef as result of a want ad in The Review.

A dairy farm, baled hay and dairy cattle are among items included in the want ads on page 2 this week.

$3296 Difference in Average Farm Income Shown by Report

A well-organized plan of operation and production was responsible for a difference of $3296 in the average income of Lake county account-keeping farmers last year, according to Farm Advisor H. C. Gilkerson.

This fact was brought out in the summary which has just been returned to farmers in Lake county who are cooperating in the farm-accounting project sponsored by the University of Illinois, college of agriculture.

The 23 most profitable farms in this study had an average net income last year of $3111 a farm as contrasted with $115 for the 23 least profitable farms. Even when soil and weather conditions are comparable there are wide variations in farm incomes, Gilkerson said.

As a result of larger crop yields an acre, more livestock, and larger returns for each $100 worth of average feed, the 23 most profitable farms had an average total receipts and net increases of $6287 as compared with $275 for the 23 least profitable farms. While the gross receipts an acre were larger on the most profitable farms by $14.73, the total operating expense an acre was $2.85 less than on the least profitable farms. The man who contributed more income in regard to $9.51 on the most profitable farms and $9.81 on the least profitable. Comparable figures for power and machinery expense were $4.13 and $6.42.

The most marked causes of improved income are the result of a very definite and well-organized plan. Six important points are usually included in such a plan. They are: (1) a cropping system which will give the maximum income and yet allow for fertility maintenance and control of erosion; (2) a livestock system adapted to the feed produced and to the markets available; (3) the right amount of high-class labor; (4) an adequate volume of business; (5) power and machinery which will do efficient and timely work with least possible cost; and (6) a choice of enterprises which will fit well together to give a proper balance to the business as a whole.

It has been found wise to have more than one major class of livestock and if possible to select those classes which are supplementary rather than competitive. Hogs and beef cattle supplement each other, while beef cattle and sheep are, in a way, competitive. On many farms, which have a small volume of business, it is desirable to use dairy cattle or poultry since these enterprises are intensive in nature, use relatively large amounts of labor, and contribute more income in relation to the amount of feed consumed than other classes of livestock.

Kirk Smith Tells of Meeting with Interesting Dr. G. Cullen

Following is the concluding installment of the bulletin relating the experiences of Lt. Kirk Smith, U.S.N.:

Hollo—May 2

"We arrived here about noon today—this is the second city of the Philippines being surpassed only by Manila in population, industries, etc. However it compares with Manila somewhat as Elgin would compare with Chicago.

"It was quite surprising to walk around at town the size of this one, as we did this afternoon, and to discover the difficulty most of the natives had in understanding our English. Of course, this place is off the beaten path visited mostly by coastal steamers and by tourists for about half a day each week; in addition to that most of the foreign residents are Spanish, so the language for the use of English are rather infrequent.

Hollo—May 5

"Yesterday morning the skipper and I went over to the Stewart to be on hand when the local dignitaries came out to the ship to receive an official call which the officers had paid them the day before. The governor of Hollo province, the mayor of Hollo and several other dignitaries came out and looked the ship over. But the person whom I enjoyed meet-

Enters Judgment Favoring Village in District 4 Suit

Get Summary Order for $1100 Tuesday; Ends Legal Tangle Over Funds

A summary judgment for $1100 was entered by Judge Grover C. Niemeyer in superior court of Cook county Tuesday in favor of the village of Barrington in its suit against school district No. 4.

This last legal action brings to a close litigation that had arisen over funds held by the village over the First State Bank at the time of its closing. In December of last year summary judgments favoring the village were entered in Lake county superior court against trustees and directors of school districts in Cuba township and the estate of the late F. L. Waterman, who served as village and school district treasurer at the time the bank failed.

An award of $4975 was entered against the school districts of Cuba township. This represented a compromise agreement made with the village board and trustees and directors of Cuba schools. A judgment for $8124 was entered against the Waterman estate.

School district No. 4, directors of Cuba school districts and the Waterman estate will receive pro rata shares of any future dividend checks received by the village from the receiver of the closed State bank. However, this pro-rating will be withheld until the judgments have been paid. It was reported.

The litigation arose following a decision of the late Mr. Waterman concerning the division of funds held jointly by him for the village and the school districts. He died at the time of the bank's closing that all funds in the First National bank belonged to the schools while those in the First State bank belonged to the village. An audit made by the village and the expense of court proceedings and legal fees.

W. U. Hardwell represented district 4 and D. B. Maloney represented the village.
