A LIBERAL RECOVERY PROGRAM

Oswald Garrison Villard, former editor of The Nation and one of America's most distinguished liberals, has made a number of specific suggestions that he believes this government must follow if the depression is to be ended. Chief among his proposals are: a suspension of "reforms" in order that business may know where it stands and not be continually battered from pillar to post by unstable policies; the establishment of a fixed and definite policy toward the public utilities, so that this great industry may unleash the billions in spending power that have been dammed up because of fear of confiscation and unmeetable government competition; tax revision, and the assurance that thereafter there will be no more tax tinkering so long as the present administration remains in power.

There can be hardly any question of the results of such a program. The doubts that have been so greatly responsible for the slackening of industrial expansion would be largely dispelled. Business and industry would feel a new surge of confidence that would be immediately reflected in reemployment. The investor, driven into financial hiding by well-justified fears of mad tax policies and a vacillating general policy on the part of government in its relation with business, would reappear with funds for progress.

Mr. Villard's program, in brief, is a recovery program, which calls for a return to fundamentals essential to prosperity in any nation.

"A Slight Case of Murder" at Catlow Sunday, Monday

"The Girl of the Golden West" to Begin Three-Day Run Wednesday

Europe's "smart set" is made the object of good-natured fun in "Bluebird's" eighth weekly comedy which is now playing at the Catlow with Claudette Colbert and Gary Cooper heading the cast. It is an adaptation of the famous play by Alfred Savoir which caused such a sensation in Continental theatres.

That convicts don't always "go over the wall," because they are eager to return to their former associations and resume their careers interrupted when the law caught up with them, is strikingly illustrated in "Over the Wall," coming to the Catlow Saturday.

The original story, written by Warden Lawes of Sing Sing, tells the story of the conviction of an innocent young man and his bitter resentment at the injustice. Through the efforts of a warm heart and a friendly chaplain, he becomes a model prisoner who is trusted outside the wall.

But when the urge comes to escape, he takes to his heels, however, is not to get revenge on the man who "framed" him, but to establish beyond all doubt that he was not guilty of the crime for which he was unjustly punished.

Edward G. Robinson—Earliest ambition of filmland's No. 1 gangster-portrayer was to become a clergyman. Graduated from Columbia university, but was sidetracked from his chosen career by his passion for amateur theatricals. Made his first professional hit in vaudeville. Was a Theatre Guild star before he came to Hollywood. An excellent linguist, an ardent art collector, an eager student of music, happy husband and father in the screen's toughest tough guy. His latest hit "A Slight Case of Murder," coming to the Catlow Sunday and Monday.

On the scene of "Now and Forever" coming Tuesday at the Catlow Theatre, Shirley Temple, the youngest and one of the most talented actresses in Hollywood, stepped out of character to give Gary Cooper a point or two on the fine art of acting.

mount swung a little too wide on the steep downhill, and a front foot slipped over the edge of the trail.
