Many Stars to Be in

Chicago Opera Cast for 1938 Season
A week of gala programs, with several debuts and many important artists, will open the 1938 season of the Chicago City Opera company. Beginning Saturday, Oct. 29, with an non-subscription performance of "Oello," in which Helen Jepson will sing Desdemona for the first time, with Giovanni Martinelli and Lawrence Tibbett, grand opera will continue for a full seven weeks, bringing to Chicago all the principal operatic artists of the world.
Sunday night of the first week, October 30, will be the first evening of ballet by the Littlefield Ballet company, imported from Philadelphia as the official ballet of the Chicago City Opera company for the 1938 season. Its 45 members are under the direction of Catherine Littlefield, who is also premier danseuse and choreographer. The ballets for this first of seven programs by the Littlefield company, sponsored by the Chicago City Opera and presented in the Civic Opera house, are: "Moment Romantique" to music by Chopin; "Fairly Doll" by Josef Bayer; "Terminal" by Herbert Klugner.
"Aida" will be the second opera on the schedule, Monday night, October 31. In it Dusolina Giannini, soprano of the Metropolitan Opera association, and Bruna Castagna, mezzo-soprano who also comes from the New York company, will make their Chicago debuts. With them will be Giovanni Martinelli, George Casplicki, Virgilio Lazzari, and Mark Lova.

The first of this season's revivals will be presented on Wednesday night, Nov. 2. "Die Meistersinger," not staged in Chicago since Rene Mason sang the important part of "Walter," will be the production in which three more artists make Chicago debuts—Maria Reinling, Viennese lyric soprano engaged by Paul Longoria this summer, Joel Berglund, baritone, and Adolph Vogel, bass-baritone of the Metropolitan. Rene Mason will again be in the cast.

The Thursday night performance has not yet been scheduled, although a popular-priced board of education series will again be presented this year on this evening.

Lawrence Tibbett will return on Friday night, Nov. 4 to sing "Rigoletto." Hilde Rogstad, young coloratura soprano from Italy, will sing her first notes in America in this opera, as "Gilda." Armand Tokatyan will also be in the cast.

The Saturday matinee will bring Bruna Castagna back to sing with Rene Mason and Carlo Morelli in "Samson and Delilah," and "Madame Butterfly," with Maria Reinling, George Casplicki and Mr. Tokatyan, will close the first week of the opera season. All of these casts are of course subject to the changes which opera schedules frequently undergo.

The opera company is promising a particularly brilliant season this
