

Hold Rededication Service at Salem Ev. Church Sunday

Event Marks Completion of Remodeling Program of Building

Sunday marked a special occasion at the Salem Evangelical church for at that time, members and friends of the church celebrated the completion of the remodeling and redecoration program which was begun several months ago. This work was completed at a total cost of $23,321.47. Two special offerings were received on Sunday for this work. A birthday offering was received during the Sunday school at which time most of the pupils in attendance made many pennies as they were year old or more with the result that $135.46 was received. At the rededication service in the afternoon, a second offering was received which amounted to $116.60. Only a small amount of a little over $50.00 remains as a deficit and is covered by pledges.

The church was beautifully decorated with flowers and the various classrooms throughout the church were festive with flowers, pictures on the walls, rugs on the floors and in other ways so attractive. The various classes purchased curtains and in some cases drapes for the windows.

Following the rededication service at 4:00 o'clock Sunday afternoon the large congregation of visitors made a pilgrimage through the church and gathered in the church parlors for a musical program and refreshments.

Besides the gifts of money and various classroom equipment there were three special contributions made. Fred W. Otto, who had been hired by the church to do the plastering, plastered two large additional walls in the basement without extra charge which added to the attractiveness of the basement. The second gift was a beautiful piano which was presented to the church by A. J. Haggenfeldt and family. Recognition of this gift was part of the Sunday afternoon exercises of rededication.

The third gift was a beautiful 4 foot by 6 foot picture which was presented by Miss Amy Anderson, superintendent of the primary department. The title of this picture is "The Children's Friend." It is the only one of its kind and was painted by Mrs. R. H. Aurand of Port Dundee. Mrs. Aurand is the wife of Rev. R. H. Aurand, district superintendent of the Iowa conference of the Evangelical church. Rev. Aurand was reared in Barrington and was a member of the Salem Sunday school and church during his boyhood days. This painting has been hung in the primary-junior department.

The program of remodeling and redecoration included the reestablishing of the balance of the roof which was not finished three years ago, the enlarging of the entrance into the basement on the East side of the church, the removing of two stairways which were replaced by a larger, and more efficient one, the making of several additional classrooms, the plastering and completing of various parts of the basement which had not been finished and painting of the entire basement. After improvements were completed in the primary-junior department this section was redecored.

Review 40-Year History of Fire Department at Party Here Friday

Forty years of service in the community were reviewed at the celebration held by members of the Barrington fire department Friday night at the camp grounds. By coincidence the celebration was held on the same date that was officially fixed as the annual meeting of the department when it adopted its constitution in July of 1898.

The fire department was organized following a meeting held on June 15, 1898, and called for purpose of selecting a temporary committee to draft a constitution. E. Seize, who now resides in Canada, was named temporary chairman and the late Henry Brockway was elected secretary.

The constitution was adopted in July of the same year and in the meantime a petition had been circulated to obtain volunteer fire fighters. Thirty-nine men signed up as members, but this number quickly dwindled to 20 when it was learned that members would be required to practice and devote some time to the department.

Among the original signers were the following: H. Heise, E. M. Black, George Bienenfuehr, F. T. Schroeder, John Brommickamp, F.

58 Ewes and Lambs in Jewel Tea Flock Killed This Week

46 Are Wounded in Two Raids This Week; Dog Pack Is Blamed

Fifty-eight ewes and lambs were killed and 46 were wounded in two raids made on Jewel Tea flocks this past week. The attacks are believed to have been made by a pack of dogs, but there were no eyewitnesses to the killings.

The flock is pastured on property south and east of the Jewel Tea plant. Some company sheep were killed several years ago, but the number was smaller than this time.

The first attack was made early last Thursday morning. The bodies of the dead sheep were found along the east side of the Jewel property. Carcasses were found in many places, as if the animals had vainly sought to escape from the running attacks of their killers. Fifty-two were killed there, among them 35 lambs, and 16 were wounded.

Following the first attack, a watchman was placed on guard but he was removed Monday when the killers failed to put in an appearance. Either Monday night or Tuesday morning the killers again attacked, slaying six sheep and wounding 30.

On both occasions, however, the invaders failed to get at prize rams, which are valued very highly.

The loss, tentatively placed at $40 with the possibility of being higher if some of the wounded sheep die, will be sustained by Lake county. A special fund, created on Sept. 10, will be used.

Prepare Sketches for Proposed WPA Job at North Park

Plans and sketches are being prepared for the proposed improvement of Barrington Northside park through a federal grant under the direction of commissioners of the park district.

Hugh H. Calkins, president of the board, stated Wednesday that the plans were being drawn by Harry VanMiddleworth, R. W. Work and J. L. Bell.

Mrs. VanMiddleworth is sketching the layout of tennis, croquet and squash courts while Mr. Calkins is designing a wading pool for children. Mr. Bell is making landscape sketches for the new property and also for the park entrance off Hough street, on property recently purchased by the Barrington Lions club.

The park board is seeking financial assistance from local organizations in sharing the expense.

At a Lions club meeting several weeks ago it was brought out that a WPA project might be feasible.

Valuable Gifts at Cooking School at Catlow Sept. 22-24

Cook Book for Every Guest; Free Admission Tickets at Stores

Women who plan to attend The Review cooking school next week should read the advertisement in this and next week's issues of the newspaper which lists up with the school. Many good food suggestions will be included in the ads next week. Many suggestions on other subjects as well as on food are included this week.

Many lucky women are going to carry home guest prizes from The Review's motion picture cooking school next week, ranging in value from the cost of a can of Spry or 5-lb. bag of Pillsbury's flour to a toastmaster breakfast set, with retail tag of $17.95, plus tax. Dozens of prizes are already on hand for the women who attend "Star in My Kitchen" on one or more of the three days. More are given daily from manufacturing and distributing nationally advertised products and from local stores. A partial list of daily door prizes and grand prizes is printed later in this article.

But to review the main facts first—"Star in My Kitchen" is a complete motion picture sparkling with humor and romance and containing plenty of suspense. It will be shown at the Catlow theatre, under the auspices of The Review and Barrington merchants Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Sept. 22, 23 and 24 starting promptly at 2 o'clock each day, with the theatre opening at 1:30.

Admission will be by free tickets, given away at the local and Lake Zurich stores and The Review office. Anyone can get from one to three tickets for attendance one, two or three days. The ladies should hurry to register for the grand prizes. The free admission tickets will be sufficient for the daily gifts.

In addition to being a romance, the picture features a cooking school with some 30 late recipes and the planning and serving of several meals demonstrated. The preparation of new dishes—dressing, omelette, baking, etc.—are shown in close-ups; so that every guest at the theatre, regardless of where she sits, can see all details clearly.

So that the guests will not forget the amount of flour or milk or seasoning in each preparation, they will be given a recipe booklet, printed at The Review office and containing each recipe clearly in the picture as well as a number of others. It is hoped that the quantity of booklets printed will be sufficient to satisfy all guests, but they will be distributed the first and second days and third if possible.

The prizes will include daily door prizes awarded after each of the three performances, and grand prizes awarded at the finale Saturday afternoon.

The grand prizes include the two-plate automatic ejector toastmaster set with tray and jam dishes purchased by The Review from the Good Housekeeping Shop, a beautiful lamp from the Public Service Co., and an aluminum-bound, indexed cook book with 240 recipes from Pillsbury Flour Mills. A partial list of the daily prizes includes packages of snow shakers, cake flour, packages of farina, boxes containing assorted packages of quaker oats, puffed wheat and pancake flour, boxes of assorted raisins and boxes of lux and flino soap, 3 1/2 lb. cans of spry, 10 5-lb. bags of Pillsbury's flour, assorted pieces of Foley's hardware including food mill, mixer, can opener and three mixing forks.
