Suburban Building Makes Gains to Offset Earlier Drop in 1938

New building in the Chicago suburban region comprising 61,724 sq. ft. in volume, according to figures for the second half of 1938, has recovered over two million sq. ft. of the six million sq. ft. drop in the first half of 1938, according to the survey released by the National Bureau of Building. The total for the first nine months of 1938 was $15,546,812 for 1937, a fall in volume of 27.2 per cent, but every month but one in the second half of 1938 showed an increase over the corresponding months of 1937, the total for the first nine months of 1938 being $15,546,812, for the same period in 1937, $17,819,216. December had the largest gain of the year, the total for the month being $2,189,812, an increase in 1938 to $2,819,812, and in 1937 to $2,111,912.

Home building shows reaction to conditions in real estate market as well as those which include all types of building, with a strong come-back in the second half of 1938. The report shows 211 new homes started in December 1938 in comparison with 127 in 1937, and only 48 in November 1937 to cost $480,000, as in December 1938, that home building reports indicate the first such drop since the upturn year since when every month has brought a great increase in volume.

In 1938 the construction of homes amounted for $17,844,000 of the entire amount of suburban building, which, as shown, was $17,844,000, or 27.2 per cent, one-half and the total of all kinds of building was $17,844,000, or 27.2 per cent, in the past three years. To approximate the picture of what the desire for modern homes means to the building industry in Chicago, reports of suburban alteration, repairs and additions must be added to that of new homes built. In 1938, these items totaled $21,443, in 1937, $12,629,947, and in 1936, $2,313,100.

The volume of new homes and the improvement of homes to the three year period was $17,351,514.

Snowy Owl Resident of Both Old World and New

The snowy owl is something of a laborer, as well as a mighty hunter. It has two methods of catching fish. One of them is to fly along just above the surface of the water until he catches a fish, whereupon it treads in and grabs it with one paw. The other method is to lie in wait on some rock, or perhaps a piece of ice, until the moment comes to strike. Although aptly, the voracious nature of the snowy owl, in a word taken from the Greek nyctos, which means nocturnal, the waver of the same does not confer itself in the hours of darkness for hunting, but it quite active in broad daylight, relate a writer in the St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

The snowy owl is a resident of both the Old World and the New, being in the northern sections of the continent. For a set usually traps a hole in the soil on a ledge of rock or some other spot that is somewhat higher than the surrounding country, where it usually waits and ably, both the father and the mother bird will unobtrusively stalk a man if he comes close to their nest with their eyes or young birds in it.

Were it not for the fact that it feeds in almost perfect darkness, it might be a more conspicuous bird rather a comical appearance. The snowy owl would have to be regarded as our most beautiful owl. It is a big fellow, attaining an average length of about 23 inches, the female being slightly larger than her mate. The normal color of this bird is white, with a larger or smaller number of narrow horizontal bands of black all over the body.

Since the "Six Days' Gospel" movement is now being held in the World war, the United States maintains the "Six Days' Gospel" is a translation of the German "Wochenblatt," or "The Weekly," a legendary oracle, and the term is supposed to have been used by the Seven Fighting qualities of the sea soldiers from their erstwhile foe.

1939 Corn Planting

Will Amount to 15c

The 1939 AAA program, states Carl Burnett, chairman of the Cook County Agricultural committee, makes provision that a payment of 15c per bushel must be made for corn in 1939. In addition to this 15c per bushel farmers will be given 1c per bushel more if their farm is in full compliance. Recently all the farmers in the county received their allotment for 1939 for their farms. If there are any questions about those allotments, farmers should be brought in to the office for correction. If any change are made in the allotment they will be additional rather than subtraction from the seven acres.

"We believe the program has satisfied itself in 1938. It has given some start out at a very unsatisfactory price and gradually work up to about 50c per bushel. We have no doubt that it would have been impossible to have reached this figure had not the farmers in the program sold their corn and kept it off the market. It is a very large quantity of corn in this, we believe the average of the 1939 program will deteriorate in a measure, whether farmers can successfully control their supplies and avoid ruthless buyers."

"It is proposed, a little later on, to hold district meetings in various parts of the county to explain the program and to go over the allotments for each farmer. Our job is what we make in this. In seeing to the allotments in fact, we are being told what we must plant in 1939. These statements

Rayon Made From Cellulose

No one person discovers the secret of inventing rayon, which is the recognized trade name in the United States for all systems in which a naturally sticky, vegetable origin cellulose, regardless of the process of manufacture, is used as a fiber in the Industries of Textiles. The various filaments of the fiber are made from various solutions of modified cellulose, such as wood pulp in a proper solvent, which is pressed or drawn through orifices and solidified by means of a precipitating medium.

In 1869 Robert Huxley, an English chemist, published a book in which he described a micro-scopic examination of cellulose and suggested the possibility of producing a similar material with rayon. Hence Reaumur, the French scientist, had a similar suggestion in 1774. Perhaps the first patent for the use of nitrocellulose for the specific purpose of manufacturing imitation silk was that taken out in 1835 by Georges Audouin, of Louisiana. The rayon industry, however, did not really begin until after 1884, when Count Hilaire Chardonnet, of France, patented his method of spinning the silk from the production of a filament of rayon.

An attendance of about 100 is expected at the annual stockholders' meeting of the Illinois Cooperative Credit Association, which will be held at the Legion hall at Woodstock on February 9. A. H. McConnell, president of the association, stated this week.

Farmers members and their wives from Lake, Boone and Military counties, the area served by the association, will hear reports on the progress of the farmers' cooperative short-term credit organization, which is one of the 21 such organizations in this state. Secretary-Treasurer Vincent M. Casey will report on the income and expense during the past year.

Two directors will be elected at all vacancies on the board. The board of five directors consists of non-members living and farming in the association's territory, who manage the affairs of the organization.

Library News

Look on current problems a definite need for information on world affairs.

Books on current problems a definite need for information on world affairs. The following books in the library will be found very helpful:

World, Kenneth M. "Windows on the World" is written especially for high school students, showing them the problems that must be solved in the future. It is a readable, clear explanation and outline of present world movements, partly based on a cross-section of world events during the recent past. Big business, war settlements, the new democracy, cooperative socialism are among the subjects discussed.

Lockhart, Bruce. "Crisis or Butler" gives a first hand picture of "things as they are." When only last year, Mr. Lockhart started on a pilgrimage through Europe, little did he think of the exciting things he would experience there. When he reached Vienna, it was the day that Hitler arrived from Rome to Prague, then to Czechoslovakia, and Berlin, where doors were opened freely to him. The book is written clearly, and will hold the attention of the reader throughout.

Boushara, Julia de. "The Woman Who Could Not Die" is the story of the author's own experience as a prisoner of state in Germany. All of the life of this woman during her imprisonment is related in an absorbing manner.

Angell, Norman. "Peace With the Dictators?"

Beck, C. "Coming Struggle for Latin America?"

Lesch, Eugene. "Last Five Hours for Austria?"

Krasnow, P. N. "From Double-Edged to Red Flag (Imperial Russia)." Bottoms, F. "Moral Horror" (Novel with scenes in Nazi Germany).

Thompson, D. "Refugees."

Oliver Dubois, Librarian.

A CASE FOR STATESMANSHIP
There is an old proverb to the effect that often we can see the forest because of the trees. That can be applied aptly to today's railroad problem.

There is so much of the opinions, policies and differences of railway management, railway labor and government regulating authorities. But we hear little of that vast, unorganized group of Americans who have most to lose if the lines continue along the road to ruin—the owners of the industry, who have purchased its stocks and bonds.

Hundreds of thousands of citizens, most of them of moderate means, are direct owners of railroad securities—and are thus directly interested in the success or failure of the railroads for their livelihood, and old age security. Millions of other citizens are indirectly owners of the industry. Every man or woman, for example, who owns a life insurance policy or a savings account has a vital interest in the railroads—for banks and insurance companies have always been among the largest holders of the industry's securities.

The interest of these millions in the railroads transcends that of either railway management or labor, and it is to these millions that management, labor and the government owe a tremendous and inescapable responsibility. The crash of the railroads would mean chaos throughout our whole country.

ORGANIZING FOR SAFETY
Organization is the vital element in any accident prevention drive that is to produce results.

Organization is the vital element in any accident prevention drive that is to produce results. The history of the industrial safety movement shows that the most intelligent, consistent organization work can achieve, in 25 years, deaths due to accidents in the factories and plants of America have decreased 44 per cent—in spite of the obvious fact that in this period the population has increased so immensely more complicated from a mechanical standpoint.

Organization is precisely as vital to highway safety—our number 1 unloved safety problem of today. Organization means unceasing, fully-planned work in a dozen different fields.

WHY BUSINESS FAILS
"Political reforms which have never managed a business usually take it for granted that existing firms and employees are there to stay," observes the New York Times.

This misconception is far more common than it should be—and it is doubtless one of the chief reasons why state, federal and municipal legislation designed to penalize inefficient merchandisers, in the interest of the inefficient. The fact of the matter is that the life of an average business is extremely short—that has been true for half a century.

No exact national survey has ever been made of the principal causes of business failure. But localized surveys covering individual businesses—where failure or success is known, and the reason that this type of business is comparatively easy and inexpensive to enter—show that inadequate financing, inexperienced, bad location and general inefficiency are the primary factors leading to bankruptcy.

We all sympathize with the plight of the small business man who is unable to keep going—but there can be no logical defense of legislation to artificially keep him in business. Competition is still the life of trade—and the consumer's main protection against waste and excess.

This Week in WASHINGTON

By RALPH E. CRUG
Representative, 10th Congressional District

Washington, D. C., Jan. 14.—It is somewhat significant that although the opening of the new session of Congress is only a few days away, the House has not yet passed a single bill. The only bill that has passed is the one which provides for the extension of the term of the President-elect.

To what extent my personal mail from constituents truly reflects the mood of the people is not something I am certain. There are no means of knowing. But one thing I am certain. There is no reason to believe that the people are more concerned as to what should be done in the future than they are as to what they should do in the present.

Farm Bureau Fought Local Government

The executive board of the Cook County Farm Bureau has given notice of its opposition to the proposed general assembly at Springfield, Ill. It is opposed to the so-called "county government" which would be established by the proposed general assembly.

The Call of the Cross" to Be Shown at Fairfield Church

The romance of 160 years of Lutheranism will be told in the moving picture film, "The Call of the Cross," at Fairfield parish hall, located at 2116 North LaSalle street, between LaSalle and LaSalle streets, at 11:15 p. m. This picture tells the story of the Swiss immigration 160 years ago caused by the liberal and rationalistic attitude of the Roman state church on fundamental doctrinal issues.

A small and faithful group, meeting at Fairfield church, realizing that the Lutherans do not believe in the doctrine which the Lutherans doctrine is being manifested in the Fatherland, left their country for America where they could worship according to the dictates of their consciences. Leading their expedition were Pastor Siegel and his wife.

THE POCKET BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE

It is a fact that the life of an average business is extremely short—that has been true for half a century. The fact of the matter is that the life of an average business is extremely short—that has been true for half a century. The fact of the matter is that the life of an average business is extremely short—that has been true for half a century.
