

WASHINGTON
This WEEK IN WASHINGTON

By RALPH E. CHURCH
Representative, 10th Congressional District

Washington, D. C., July 17.—The key to the advancement of the program for this session is the bill for the creation of a new port measure: the Neutrality bill, which has been passed by both houses by the majority of the administration's party.

The opposition to these two particular bills is desired by the president. It is recognized that the fact that around this time of the year congressmen are anxious to go home.

Businessmen aren't alone in this view. Various newspapers, economists and publicists have lately come to share it with them.

Typical opinion came recently from hard-hitting Johnson of R.R.A. faction. He said that the monopoly show has a purpose, but that the monopoly is not a revolutionary as Hitler's, and they are making as excellent use of the puppets on that committee and the general infidelity of the people.

Those are strong words, but recent hearings of the committee seem to more or less justify them. Tremendous interest has followed the committee's inquiry into the life insurance business.

Just how successful those who steer the course of the monopoly committee have been in persuading the public that the National Mutual Federal Government is a danger, remains to be seen.
