Trustees Appoint V. D. Hawley New Sanitary Inspector

Will Enforce Plumbers' Code; Board Staffs Attitude on Building Work

The authority of Building Commissioner V. D. Hawley further extended over building made by the trustees Monday night when he was appointed sanitary inspector by board of trustees Monday night.

The new post is mainly for the purpose of enforcing the present plumbing code which was also amended Monday night.

In the future, all plumbers doing business in Barrington will be required to post a $500 yearly bond and to pay a fee on each building trade contractor.

The bond was increased from $100 to $500 Monday night but the amount of the fee remains the same as has been on the present code for many years.

The code, with its changes, became effective October 1, 1937. A more stringent enforcement in the future of all rules and regulations pertaining to building trades was the expression of board members Monday night. All violators of the past are to be considered "water over the dam" and no exceptions may be made of the old code.

A change of per unit fee was made for adwork permits. It was pointed out by trustees, to the cost of such work as required.

"Repeat Arms Embargo Best Plan for Us," Lions Club Speaker Says

The question of retention or amendment of the present neutrality act is the subject of a speech made by R. D. Harrington, 312 E. Superior street, Monday night.

He pointed out that the act should be amended to permit the sale of goods and services to belligerent nations on a "cash and carry" basis.

During his talk he outlined the present neutrality law and its aims which prevent the shipment of goods that beyond the pale of actual armaments, and which would allow the goods to be carried in American vessels and manned by Americans.

The act is not effective, he pointed out, because the German U-boat campaign is directed against many things not forbidden by the act.

"The Man in the Iron Mask" Coming to Catlow Screen

"Bachelor Mother," Featuring Ginger Rogers, Here Wednesday

"Three Glorious Girls," a comedy of modern girlhood, which will be shown at the Catlow Theatre Friday and Saturday, is a picture replete with innovation. Lina Turner, who plays opposite Lew Ayres, makes her first appearance on the screen in a top billing role. Anita Louise, her erstwhile cost mostly as the drowsy china doll ingenue, becomes a heavy for the first time in her screen career.

Martha Hunt, who also seemed doomed to ingenuity, breaks forth with a dramatic characterization of a perennial group who, faced with the loss of her husband, prefers suicide to humiliation.

Louisy Joan Bennett and handsome Louis Hayward are romantically loved for the first time in the loose and thrilling story of "The Man in the Iron Mask," the romantic drama of the reign of Louis XIV of France, which is scheduled for showing at the Catlow Sunday and Monday.

The story of "The Man in the Iron Mask" is based on the novel by Alexandre Dumas and dramatized by the late John G. Frank and his twin brother Philippe. The film is about to execute his own brother for treason. The late John G. Frank is unaware that he has a twin. Learning the news, he fears that a plot to destroy him in the brother's favor may be hatched and he decides to put Philippe out of the way for good. He has him engaged by the mountaineer frog mask, one of the grimmest forms of torture used in those gory days.

The smugging of goods and ammunition via air and sea for the use of warlike nations, is abhorredly depicted in "Panama Lady" in which Louise Bell plays the starling role, with Alan Hale who appears opposite.

With most of its thrilling action unfolding against a tropical background the story reveals the clever operations of ruthless contrabandists. Counterpointing this is the romantic conflict between an outlaw aviator, an adventurous engineer and a pretty cabaret girl.

Her double feature hits Tuesday in "Tropic Holiday," re-cast and re-edited starring Bob Burns, Dorothy Lamour, Martha Raye and Ray Milland.

Most of the weekend's impulses of a moment brings a flood of complications in its trail in the experience faced by Ginger Rogers in "Bachelor Mother," co-starring David Niven, featuring the "Glow" Wednesday for three days.

Miss Rogers plays the role of a department store, and Niven is seen as one of the store executives. During her lunch hour Ginger, passing a woman in a woman's place a baby on the steps and runs away. As Ginger herself has to the doorway to keep the child from falling, a man opens the door, see her with baby, and assumes it is his own child.

Explanations prove useless, everyone concerned is convinced that she is trying to abandon the infant, and this plunges her into a ludicrous series of occurrences which involve her with Niven and his millionaire father.
