

"Bean Geste" Is Week-End Feature at Catlow Theatre

"When Tomorrow Comes," with Charles Boyer, here
Wednesday

A unique transaction of life among eleven oddly assorted people strangled in the middle of a vast, remote island, is the feature of the week-end at the Catlow Theatre. "The Catlow Theatre" is the first of a series of three plays, the first of which is "The Catlow Theatre," the second is "The Catlow Theatre," and the third is "The Catlow Theatre." The plays are written by the author, and are presented by the Catlow Theatre.

The eleven ill-fated people in the play are: a pilot, his co-pilot, a runaway bride, a gold-digger, a prizefighter, a gangster, an architect, a biologist, his wife, a millionaire and the son of a murdered public figure. Of this group, only five are enabled to return to civilization in the original plan. How these five are determined constitutes one of the most powerful dramatic crises ever filmed.

William A. Wellman, who produced and directed "The Catlow Theatre," which will be presented locally on Sunday at the Catlow Theatre, is actually a veteran of the World War. He served as a flying lieutenant throughout the World War, his daring earning him the name of "Wild Bill."

Gary Cooper, Ray Milland and Robert Preston are starred in "The Catlow Theatre," appearing as the gallant Geste brothers, "Bean," "Lobo" and "Hughey" respectively.

The supporting cast is headed by John Douglas, Susan Hayward, J. Carroll Nash, Donald O'Connor and James Stephenson. The story tells how the brothers find adventure in the region so that none can be accused of the theft of the valuable sapphire from their guests.

"The Forgotten Woman," a gripping dramatic story starring David Gable, comes to the Catlow Theatre. Featured in the supporting cast are Donald Briggs, Rex Arden, William Lundigan, Alvin Karpis and Donnie Dunagan.

Double featured Tuesday in Hopalong Cassidy's latest "Ranger War," featuring William Boyd, with Russell Hayden, Willard Robertson, Matt Moore, Pedro Cordoba, Betty Moran and Britt Wood. Has a married man the right to fall in love with another woman?

The question faces Charles Boyer in "When Tomorrow Comes," which comes to the Catlow Theatre for a three day engagement.
